

Cost of food basket up $12 in July

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual cost of a market basket of farm-produced food rose $12 from June to July despite a recent price lid imposed by the Nixon administration, figures released Friday by the Agriculture Department showed.

The cost of an entire year's supply of food — theoretically enough to feed a household of 3.2 persons — was $1,529 in July, the department said. That was up $208 from a year earlier.

The food price lid, except for beef, was removed July 18. Controls on beef prices will be removed Sept. 12.

The $12 increase in the annual market basket rate in July compared with a $24 boost in June. Gains in the indicator earlier included: April $22; March $49; February $34; and January $37. The market basket annual rate has not declined since last October when it was $1 lower.

The figures are based on reports showing retail price spreads from farm to market. They were compiled by department technicians at the request of reporters.

Using the annual rate, it cost a typical household about 23 cents more per week to eat in July than in the month before. Compared with July, 1972 the weekly food bill was $4 more.

The USDA market basket includes only domestic, farm-produced food and not imported or seafood items. It is based on surveys made in 1960-61 on the average quantities of food purchased annually per household.

Food costs determined by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in surveys early each month are used by the department to compile its market basket figures.

According to the analysis, rising farm prices accounted for $11 of the $12 increase in the market basket price from June to July. Middlemen added the other $1.

In all, the farm value of the July food basket was $598 and the middleman's share was $331. Compared with July 1972, the farm value was up $163 and the middleman's share was up $45.

Put another way, the retail cost of the market basket has risen 15.8 per cent since July 1972, the farm value rose 30.4 per cent, and the middleman's share 5.8 per cent.

Most of the increase occurred this year, with the total retail cost up 14.3 per cent, farm value 26.9 per cent and the middleman's share 5.5 per cent.

The government report said marketing spreads widened sharply from June to July for fresh fruit, eggs, oilseed products and bakery and cereal items. In contrast, spreads narrowed for meat as the farm value went up faster than retail prices.

Ceiling hike for FHA, VA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday raised the interest ceiling on federally insured home mortgages to a record high 8.5 per cent in an effort to help prospective low- and middle-income home buyers compete for scarce mortgage money.

The new maximum permissible rate will take effect today for mortgages up to $33,000 that are insured by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration, Housing Secretary James Lynn announced.

FHA Commissioner Sheldon Lubar said the new ceiling was "in response to the realities of the market."

Lubar in an interview said lenders have not been willing to finance federally insured loans, which allow low- and middle-income families to buy homes with little or no down payment, because the interest rates permitted by the previous ceiling were too low in today's tight money market.

As a result, most families with incomes of $15,000 or less and small cash reserves have been unable to buy homes since June, Lubar said.

The FHA commissioner said it was impossible to predict when mortgage rates might begin to fall.

Lubar said the higher rate would keep some people out of the housing market, but that overall it would provide more mortgage funds for FHA and VA guaranteed loans than now available.

Those persons it would keep out of the market are prospective home buyers whose income is not quite high enough for them to be considered a proper risk on the amount they seek to borrow at newly increased interest rates.

THEIR numbers would be small compared to the number of would-be home buyers whose prospects of securing mortgage money will be enhanced by the higher interest rates guaranteed, government officials said.

But George Martin, president of the National Association of Home Builders, assailed the increase, saying it "will simply add to the burdens of the already troubled consumer seeking housing, making it more difficult for him to get mortgage financing at reasonable rates."

Martin said the FHA and VA action will "reinforce" the 9 per cent and higher rates being charged on conventional loans.

It was the second increase in federally insured mortgage ceilings in two weeks. The interest rate maximum was raised Aug. 10 from 7 per cent to 7 3/4 per cent.

HARRIS Friedman, chief economist for the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said preliminary figures indicate home mortgages being placed in August were averaging about 9 per cent. In some areas, such as Washington, D.C., the prevailing commercial mortgage rate this week was pushing 10 per cent.

"Mortgage lenders simply don't use FHA and VA mortgages at their present rate of 7.75 per cent," a Housing and Urban Development spokesman said.

Federal housing officials said they hoped the 8.5 per cent FHA and VA maximum would permit middle and low-income buyers to return to the housing market. But they could not predict the real impact of the new ceiling because of the higher and rapidly increasing rates being charged for conventional loans.

The new FHA and VA maximum rate matches the 8.5 per cent permitted between Jan. 4 and Dec. 1, 1970, when the housing market also was depressed.

Everett Matson, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, said the new rate was "a welcome signal that economic reality has overcome political expediency. The secretary of HUD deserves congratulations for a courageous step that will bring a measure of relief to the money-starved housing market."

High State Dept. diplomats tapped

By JOHN M. CREWDSON

WASHINGTON — Three high-ranking foreign service officers, including a key assistant to Henry A. Kissinger during the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, were among 13 government officials whose telephones were tapped on President Nixon's authority between 1969 and 1971, according to sources familiar with the operation.

The sources said that the officials whose telephones were monitored included William H. Sullivan, formerly the State Department's liaison to the Paris talks and now United States ambassador to the Philippines; Richard F. Pedersen, formerly the State Department counselor and now American Ambassador to Hungary; and Richard L. Sneider, now deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asia and Pacific affairs.

Nixon said on May 22 that the two-year wiretap effort, which included as its targets four newsmen, six members of the National Security Council headed by Kissinger, and a presidential speechwriter, was initiated to put a stop to news reports of "highly sensitive foreign policy initiatives...which were obviously based on leaks."

Nixon said that the program had been coordinated by Kissinger, his national security adviser and now secretary of state-designate, J. Edgar Hoover, the late director of the FBI, and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, including Stuart Symington, D-Mo., who is its acting chairman, have said that Kissinger will be questioned.

on his role in the wiretap program at confirmation hearings on his nomination for the State Department's top post. The hearings are expected to begin in about two weeks.

Kissinger has said that he finds the use of wiretaps distasteful, but he has also characterized the leaks of secret information that the operation was designed to halt equally unfortunate. "The line between national security and individual freedom has to be carefully drawn," he said at his news conference Thursday.

During the two-year period beginning in May of 1969, Mitchell signed 13 authorizations to wiretap the telephones of government officials selected from lists of names that were provided by Kissinger, nine of the 13 officials have been identified so far by sources familiar with the operation.

The White House and Kissinger's office have declined comment on the disclosures, and an aide to Kissinger said Friday that he would have no comment on the reports that Ambassador Sullivan had been among those monitored.

A career State Department officer, Sullivan worked closely with Kissinger in Paris late last year and early in 1973 as the liaison between the technical-level talks, where the protocol on supervising the Vietnam cease-fire was worked out, and the top-level negotiations between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese negotiator.

Nixon threat case dropped

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Justice Department, acting on instructions from the Secret Service, Friday dropped federal charges against Edwin M. Gaudet Jr., a burly former New Orleans policeman accused of threatening President Nixon's life.

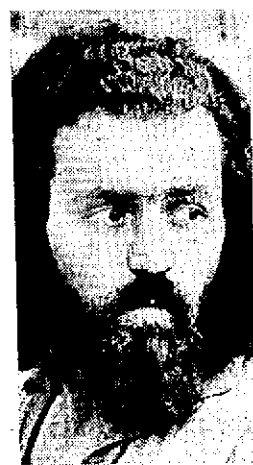

A U.S. magistrate in Albuquerque, N.M., where Gaudet surrendered Wednesday, officially threw out the charges.

"THE U.S. attorney's office in New Orleans today dismissed the complaint filed Aug. 20 against Edwin Gaudet for having made an alleged oral threat against the life of President Nixon in a New Orleans drugstore on Aug. 15," U.S. Attorney Gerald Gallinhouse said.

Gallinhouse said the charges were dropped "because the woman witness who had made a previous identification of Gaudet as the man who made the threat said under oath this morning that she could not confirm her previous positive identification."

The witness was not identified.

Gaudet, 30, remained jailed in Albuquerque on state charges of aggravated assault on a police officer with intent to commit a violent felony. His bond was $10,000 on each of three counts.

EDWIN M. GAUDET Still Held on 3 Counts

Gaudet fled on foot into the rugged Sangre De Cristo mountains from his commune home Monday when two federal officers arrived to arrest him while President Nixon was speaking to a veteran's convention in New Orleans.

The bearded former officer fired three shots from a rifle during his escape, but no one was injured. He eluded searchers for two days and the Secret Service called off its manhunt when Gaudet's wife, Judy, and a cousin said they could find him and bring him out without resistance.

He rode with them down a dusty road in a pickup truck later Wednesday and gave up.

When he surrendered, Gaudet blurted out: "The government is organized crime; the Pope is head of the Mafia, and I support Angela Davis for president."

The federal warrant reported Gaudet was overheard in the New Orleans drugstore saying: "Somebody ought to kill President Nixon. If no one has the guts, I'll do it."

Gaudet's wife had said she knew he could not have made the threat last week in New Orleans because he was living with her at the "Morning Star" commune at the time.

SECRET SERVICE agents Monday traced Gaudet — who was arrested three years ago for throwing a flaming American flag at Nixon's car in a New Orleans motorcade — to the commune in northern New Mexico, where he had been living for about a year.

The Secret Service has admitted previously there was no connection between Gaudet and a "possible conspiracy" against the President that caused cancellation of Nixon's motorcade on New Orleans's famed Canal Street last Monday.

Probe of assassination conspiracy yields little

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Investigators have been unable to establish sufficient evidence to make arrests in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate President Nixon, sources close to the inquiry say.

One informant said federal and local officers will "just be watching" six black militants reportedly involved in a plot to kill Nixon. "We'll just ride it out," the source said.

In a rare public announcement, the Secret Service recommended Nixon abandon plans for an open-car motorcade Monday through downtown New Orleans after learning of the alleged plot. Nixon was here to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention.

officials considered the threat serious enough to cancel the motorcade. But an intense probe failed to yield enough evidence to warrant arrests and trial, according to a local police source.

The alleged plot was reported by a police informant who told of a meeting at which assassination plans were discussed, a local source said. The source said the informant told police later of another meeting between two of the original six alleged conspirators at which a rifle changed hands.

New Orleans police then drew federal agents into the case who issued "arrest authorizations."

But, the source said, Nixon came and left before police could establish enough basis for arresting anyone and have not yet been able to corroborate the informants' information.

In Washington, a Secret Service spokesman said he would have no comment on the New Orleans report.

But the spokesman, Jack Warner, said the investigation into the alleged conspiracy is continuing and that arrests are still possible in the case.

He said there has been no change in the status of the investigation as far as the Secret Service is concerned.

Cyclist killed on L.B. freeway

A 50-year-old Los Angeles man Friday was fatally injured when his motorcycle went out of control and hit a concrete abutment at the transition road from the Long Beach Freeway to the San Diego Freeway, authorities said.

Highway patrol investigators said Richard Galen Quinn suffered massive head injuries in the 7:20 p.m. accident. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Pacific Hospital, investigators said.

Install gyroscopes, replace film

Space walkers set ship straight

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON — In a space walk lasting 4 1/2 hours Friday, two Skylab 2 astronauts loaded fresh film in solar telescope cameras and installed a new set of gyroscopes to keep their ship sailing straight and true.

Astronauts Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott, muffled in white space suits and bubble helmets, worked outside their orbiting lab from 9:24 a.m. to 1:55 p.m. EDT. Officials called the space walk an "unqualified success."

Lousma plugged in four connectors on a 23-foot-long gyroscope cable and Mission Control said the new gyros "look beautiful."

Garriott made short work of the camera film resupply and then spent some time adjusting two doors on the solar telescopes and retrieving a space dust collection experiment.

Commander Alan L. Bean remained inside the spacecraft, ready to take action to control the spaceship during the switchover from old and failing gyros to the new stabilizing instruments.

Installation of the new "six pack" of gyroscopes went "real well," said Lousma.

"The six pack is looking good," said Mission Control minutes after Lousma completed the job.

The 85-ton space station was without gyroscope controls for nine minutes, but drifted only a few degrees out of attitude.

Later, however, venting of oxygen from the suits of the spacewalking astronauts caused the orbiting lab to slowly turn. Bean commanded some cold-gas jet thrusters to fire and the craft stabilized.

When the space walk

work was completed, Lousma said he didn't want to get back inside.

"It looks like we're forced to go in, which we don't want to do," he said. Then he asked Mission Control: "Sure you don't have something else we could do out here."

He was asked to get back in and the hatch closed 4 hours and 31 minutes after the space walk began.

Recovered

Actor Raymond Burr was released Friday from the UCLA Medical Center two weeks after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Burr, 56, collapsed Aug. 10 aboard a Portuguese airliner as he was about to return to the U.S. from the Azores. He was flown to Van Nuys Airport Wednesday, and given tests Thursday before being cleared for release.

Trade surplus spurs hopes

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — The government reported Friday that the U.S. had its second trade surplus of the year in July, bringing official predictions that the period of trade deficits may be over. "Our goods are competitively priced," Treasury Secretary George Shultz said, attributing the improvement to the two devaluations of the U.S. dollar plus the new system of floating exchange rates. The Commerce Department said the country had a surplus of exports over imports of $106.1 million in July, compared with a deficit of $15.5 million in June. The country also had a surplus of $196.3 million in April, the first monthly surplus since September 1971. Exports so far this year are 33 per cent ahead of last year, while imports are up only 20 per cent. The government estimates that each $1 billion in exports provides 72,000 jobs.

Drug police indicted

ALTON, Ill. — A federal grand jury investigating a series of mistaken-identity drug raids Friday indicted eight federal and four local narcotics agents on charges of depriving 11 persons of their constitutional rights. The 17-count indictment said the agents acted "without probable cause or search warrants" when they broke into six homes in Collinsville, East St. Louis and Edwardsville, Ill., during a five-day period last April. Two occupants of the homes were assaulted while they were handcuffed and a third man was jailed for three days without being charged with a crime, the indictment charged. Three of the agents later sought to cover up the incidents by trying to "tone down" reports to investigators, it said. Three of the agents also were charged with lying to the federal grand jury.

Chile police, students battle

SANTIAGO, Chile — Riot police fired tear gas on antigovernment students rampaging through downtown Santiago within two blocks of the presidential palace Friday, and President Salvador Allende faced a deepening government crisis. Two more army generals resigned Friday, including the commander of the Santiago military district, one day after the commander quit Allende's "national security" cabinet and resigned from the armed forces. About a thousand secondary school students were involved in the riots near the University of Chile against the government's repeated extensions of the annual August holidays which they said had seriously disrupted class schedules. The government presumably didn't want the pupils creating street incidents during recent weeks of strikes, violence and sabotage. Police said 11 persons were injured and at least a dozen arrested.

People in the news

White House denies leaking Agnew probe

Combined News Services

A presidential spokesman Friday described as "absolutely, totally false" allegations that the White House was leaking damaging information on the criminal investigation of Vice President Spiro Agnew.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said in San Clemente that President Nixon called Agnew in Washington shortly after his news conference Wednesday to personally express his confidence in him and assure him of his support in finding and halting the leaks.

Warren vigorously denied that anybody in the White House had suggested Agnew resign his post and said the President was confident Agnew's innocence would be established by the current investigation. Agnew has vehemently protested that information from the grand jury investigation into allegations that he participated in a scheme to collect kickbacks from contractors while governor of Maryland was being leaked by persons in the Justice Department to newsmen and that he was being "tried in the press."

Nixon, at his news conference, said he had ordered Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson to investigate the source of the leaks and summarily fire any public official involved.

However, Justice Department officials in private conversations with reporters have pointed the finger at the White House. And Richardson noted in his response to Agnew that scodes of people, including "individuals under investigation, their lawyers, select members of my, your and the White House staff and certain investigative personnel of the internal revenue service" are also familiar with the outlines of the investigation.

Both Nixon at his Wednesday news conference and Warren in responses to newsmen since then have skirted the issue of what action would be taken if Agnew were indicted for criminal conduct.

Obsolete

Futurist writer Alvin Toffler said Friday in Washington that the present educational system is obsolete and must be replaced, because young people are being prepared for jobs that won't exist in the future.

Toffler, author of "Future Shock," said educators have not kept pace with rapid technological developments that had transformed industrial society in the past two decades.

"We have, for the past 200 years, lived in a society based on the factory" where young people have been "industrial fodder," he said.

"The present education system from kindergarten to high school is obsolete," he said. "We are beginning to learn that young people and adults are likely to learn faster, better and more outside the classroom."

Student

Robertla Flack, the blues-soul singer, will enter the University of Massachusetts School of Education in Amherst this fall to begin work on a doctorate on improved methods of teaching disadvantaged children.

Miss Flack, who won a Grammy award for "First Time I Ever Saw Your Face," will continue to give concerts and make recordings between classes. A fellow doctoral candidate is television personality Bill Cosby.

Improved

A medical bulletin said Friday there was a slight improvement detected in the heart activity and blood circulation of Sweden's King Gustaf VI Adolf.

A spokesman for the city hospital in the southern town of Helsingborg, said the monarch was receiving intensive medical care to prevent infection following an operation earlier this week for a bleeding ulcer.

Royal reception

Britain's Princess Anne is greeted Friday at reception of Great Britain-USSR Association at London's Grosvenor Place.

Uris

A state appeals court has upheld a judgment giving $400,000, half the profits of novelist Leon Uris' book "Topaz" to former French Secret Service official Philippe de Vosjoli, an attorney for Vosjoli said Friday in Los Angeles.

De Vosjoli had sued Uris, stating that the novelist had paid him only $65,000 after promising him half the book's profits. The story was based partly on material de Vosjoli had prepared about his experiences during the 1962 missile crisis, Friedman said.

Surprise

It was supposed to be a surprise party. But how do you hide 4,000 chickens?

The chickens, along with 12,000 ears of corn, 1,500 watermelons and plenty of beans, will provide the fare today for an open-house birthday party for Alabama Gov. George Wallace in Montgomery.

And just so the well-wishers don't go home hungry, there will be a 1,200-pound cake for Wallace's 54th birthday. The party will be free. Most of the food for the barbeque was donated, and the remaining costs of the party will be picked up by supporters. Entertainment will include several country music groups and gospel singers.

Plea

American Indian Movement leader Vernon Bellecourt pleaded innocent Friday in Cheyenne, Wyo., to federal conspiracy charges stemming from the Indian occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., earlier this year.

Bellecourt, 41, of Denver, was named with two other persons in a federal indictment charging conspiracy to incite riot and obstruct law enforcement officers at Wounded Knee. Maximum sentence for conviction is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The indictment said Bellecourt, Tonja Ackerman and Douglas Phelps conspired to have supplies transported to AIM members occupying the village. Ackerman and Phelps have not been arrested.

Divorce

The wife of U.S. Rep. Portney H. "Pete" Stark, D-Calif., filed for divorce Friday in the Contra Costa County Superior Court office branch in Richmond, a court clerk said.

The petition, filed at court closing time, was not available, nor was either of the principals reachable for comment.

Mrs. Elinor Stark has been out of the city for several days and Rep. Stark, 41, has not yet returned from a trip to Cambodia.

Two nations

The widow of American author and China expert Edgar Snow said Friday in Eysins, Switzerland, she will follow his last wishes and divide his ashes between China and the U.S.

Mrs. Snow said she would go to China next month to bury part of the ashes of her late husband, who died of cancer in February 1972. Next winter, she said, she hopes to take the rest of the ashes to the U.S. to be "placed by the Hudson River before it enters the Atlantic," according to Snow's written instructions.

Coming true

Isaac Asimov, a prolific writer of science fiction, says he's angry that some of his dire predictions might come true.

"I don't want to be proven correct because people didn't do anything," the 63-year-old author of 143 books said in Rensselaerville, N.Y.

One of his books predicted a massive food shortage by 1980, and the author commented, "They don't call me a doomsayer any more."

Another book, "Trends," written 30 years ago, told of a massive opposition to space travel. Now, he told a seminar on urban morality, massive space programs are becoming unpopular in the U.S.

Star

Monty Hall, host of the "Let's Make a Deal" television game show, was honored Friday with a star imbedded in the "Walk of Fame" on Hollywood Boulevard.

At a luncheon later, Hall spoke of his youth as the son of a butcher in Winnipeg, Manitoba. Hall, attended the University of Manitoba and got his first broadcasting job at a Canadian station, KRC.

Astronaut

Doctors caring for Fred Haise Jr. expressed concern Friday for the former astronaut, hospitalized in Galveston, Tex., following a midweek plane crash.

"He's still listed as critical with prognosis guarded," a hospital spokesman said.

Haise, 39, developed a pulmonary condition after inhaling gas from the burning World War II single-engine trainer he crashed near Galveston Wednesday. He received second and third-degree burns over half his body when the plane's engine failed and it plummeted into an open field.

Irritated

An irritated Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel Friday denied in Annapolis that he is being investigated by a federal grand jury studying political corruption in the state and rejected charges that Maryland is the most corrupt state in the nation.

"I don't know why you keep asking me that unless it is because you hope I am," Mandel told a reporter who asked him whether he was being investigated. "I am not being investigated and I do not intend to answer the question again."

Asked if he voluntarily would say if the probe spread to him, Mandel said, "You're darn right. If I am, you'll hear me screaming all over the state of Maryland."

Parole urged for woman in prison for half life

The Nebraska Parole Board in Lincoln recommended Friday that Caril Ann Fugate, who accompanied her boyfriend Charles Starkweather on a killing rampage that left 11 persons dead 15 years ago, be considered for parole.

The board recommended the state Pardon Board commute her life sentence for murder to a definite term of years, a prerequisite to parole consideration. If the Pardon Board reduces Miss Fugate's sentence to 25 years or less, she will be eligible for immediate parole consideration. "It is our judgment by majority vote that society's purpose has been served, and Miss Fugate cannot benefit by further imprisonment and is an acceptable risk for parole consideration," said John Greenholtz, Parole Board chairman.

Starkweather died in the electric chair in 1959. Miss Fugate was convicted of first-degree murder for aiding and abetting him, and the jury prescribed life in prison.

Cops push hunt for kidnaper

Condition of girl serious

Associated Press

An 11-year-old Mission Hills girl was unconscious and in serious condition Friday after reportedly being kidnaped and raped by a man who offered her $2 to distribute leaflets at a suburban shopping center.

Tracy Gayle Greenfield was in a coma at UCLA Medical Center. Doctors said the girl had been drugged, into unconsciousness, but it was not known how she received the drugs.

THE girl was found by police in a parking lot behind a San Fernando Valley shopping center Friday morning. About 150 police officers and two helicopter units had searched for the girl after she was reported missing Thursday night.

Police said Tracey and her brother, Andrew, 8, were approached by a middle-aged man with grey-and-white, collar-length hair Thursday. The man offered them money to place the leaflets for a dry cleaning company on car windshields.

The boy told police the man drove him and his sister to a parking lot and that he got out to begin work. When he returned, the car had been driven away with his sister. He then ran home and told his parents, who called the police.

"WE'RE just thankful she's alive and want to thank the police department and our friends and neighbors for their concern," said the father, Henry Greenfield. "The worst is over, we think."

Police searched for the suspected kidnaper and said he may be the same man who reportedly indecently exposed himself Thursday afternoon at the shopping center where the girl was found.

Days later, escapee is missed

MARTINEZ (AP) — Embarrassed Contra Costa County sheriff's officials said Friday they're on the trail of a convicted rapist who apparently walked out of the country jail with a garbage can and wasn't missed for five days.

"I think he's in the Bay area," said Acting Sheriff Harry Ramsey. "I think we'll have him pretty soon."

Conser L. Shaw, 35, of Richmond was last seen at the jail Aug. 18 when his wife, Bonita, visited. Sheriff's officials said Shaw was present for body counts and checks until Aug. 21, when he was discovered missing.

At this point, nobody knows exactly when he disappeared.

L.B. man held after Naples bank robbed

FBI agents Friday arrested a 24-year-old Long Beach man shortly after a nighttime bandit took $800 from the Security National Bank branch at 5850 Naples Plaza.

The suspect, Stephan M. Redfearn, was taken into custody at an apartment at 1521 Marine St. Agents said that Redfearn, who had rented the apartment just a short time ago, is an employee of the Associated Students' Social Commission at Long Beach State University.

The FBI said the bandit entered the bank about 12:25 p.m., presented a demand note to the teller but produced no gun. He left hurriedly but was recognized by a witness to the robbery, who informed officers.

Important Notice To The Homemakers Of This Area

Everyone's talking about inflation and higher prices. Almost everyone thinks that the only answer to rising costs is higher prices. We at Levitz disagree. We believe there are other ways, better ways, to fight inflation. We believe that almost everyone overlooks the fact that the fixed costs of running a business drop, percentage-wise, if you can achieve higher volume of sales. We believe that almost everyone overlooks the fact that interest costs and storage costs on inventory drop, percentage-wise, if you can achieve faster turnover of that inventory. We believe that almost everyone overlooks the fact the operating costs of a business drop if you can achieve greater efficiency in running the business.

Accordingly, we at Levitz are going after higher volume of sales and faster turnover of our inventory in the only way we know will work ... that is, by lowering prices. In the past several weeks, we have actually lowered prices, below the freeze levels, on thousands of items in every one of our warehouse/showrooms. We have documented proof of these reductions... they are for real. We believe we will still earn a reasonable profit because we have been working for months to improve our efficiency and dramatically lower our cost of doing business. We have taken advantage of our huge buying power to save on our purchases from the factories. By buying our furniture in solid carloads and solid truckloads we assure huge savings in freight costs. We are operating our units with a minimum of personnel... fewer but better qualified. We have eliminated the fancy and expensive retail frills which do nothing but raise costs. If you'll put up with the slight inconvenience of getting your furniture in the original factory cartons, you can enjoy immense savings... and stop inflation in its tracks!

We honestly believe that our prices on our famous-brand furniture are now convincingly lower than you'll find anywhere in this area. But, don't take our word for it. Shop everywhere ... and then come to Levitz.

Spurt in prices forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz predicted Friday that wholesale prices would make "an astounding" jump in August but the overall inflation rate should cool in the months ahead.

"I believe we will see a diminishing rate of inflation once the bulge is behind us," Shultz told a meeting of the American Bankers Association.

THE "BULGE" is the surge in prices that has occurred each time the government has lifted a portion of the freeze or otherwise relaxed price control rules. The current explosion in wholesale prices has followed the lifting of the freeze on most of the food industry in mid-July and on the rest of the economy in mid-August.

It will show up officially on Sept. 7 when the Labor Department releases the wholesale price index for August.

Shultz also said natural gas prices should be allowed to rise "very substantially" to encourage domestic production.

Even with a higher price level, Shultz said, domestic gas could cost less than the imported variety.

A NUMBER of companies have signed agreements with gas producing nations for large-scale imports of natural gas to the United States, which would adversely affect the U.S. balance of payments, he said.

He said there was a "good possibility" that the economy would make a "reasonably soft landing" at a rate of four per cent real growth. This would contrast with a growth rate of twice that figure in the fourth quarter of 1972 and the first quarter of 1973, and a small 2.4 per cent growth rate in the second quarter of this year.

As for the end of wage-price controls, Shultz said, "I don't know. Nobody knows."

Setting a final date "tends to undermine the operation of controls," he said.

Feedlot beef saves funds for hospital

SCHUYLER, Neb. (UPI) — An elated "feedlot" beef buyer said Friday he had made "the best deal I've made in a long time" and waxed enthusiastic over the Nebraska beef industry.

Marvin Gersten, purchase commissioner for the beef-short city of New York, inspected 100 freshly butchered beef carcasses at the Spencer Foods Co. plant which custom-slaughtered the animals after the city brought them "on the hoof" from a southern Nebraska feedlot.

"I'M DELIGHTED," Gersten said. "Nebraska people are great. Nebraska people are great. I can serve my hospitals Nebraska sirloin cheaper than I can buy pork tenderloin."

The meat will go by freight to New York for distribution to the city's hospitals, Gersten said. One truck was to arrive Monday and the other Thursday.

The Nebraska beef, he said, yielded 81.5 per cent, compared with 60 per cent or less on beef the city formerly got from regular wholesalers, whose supply has dried up.

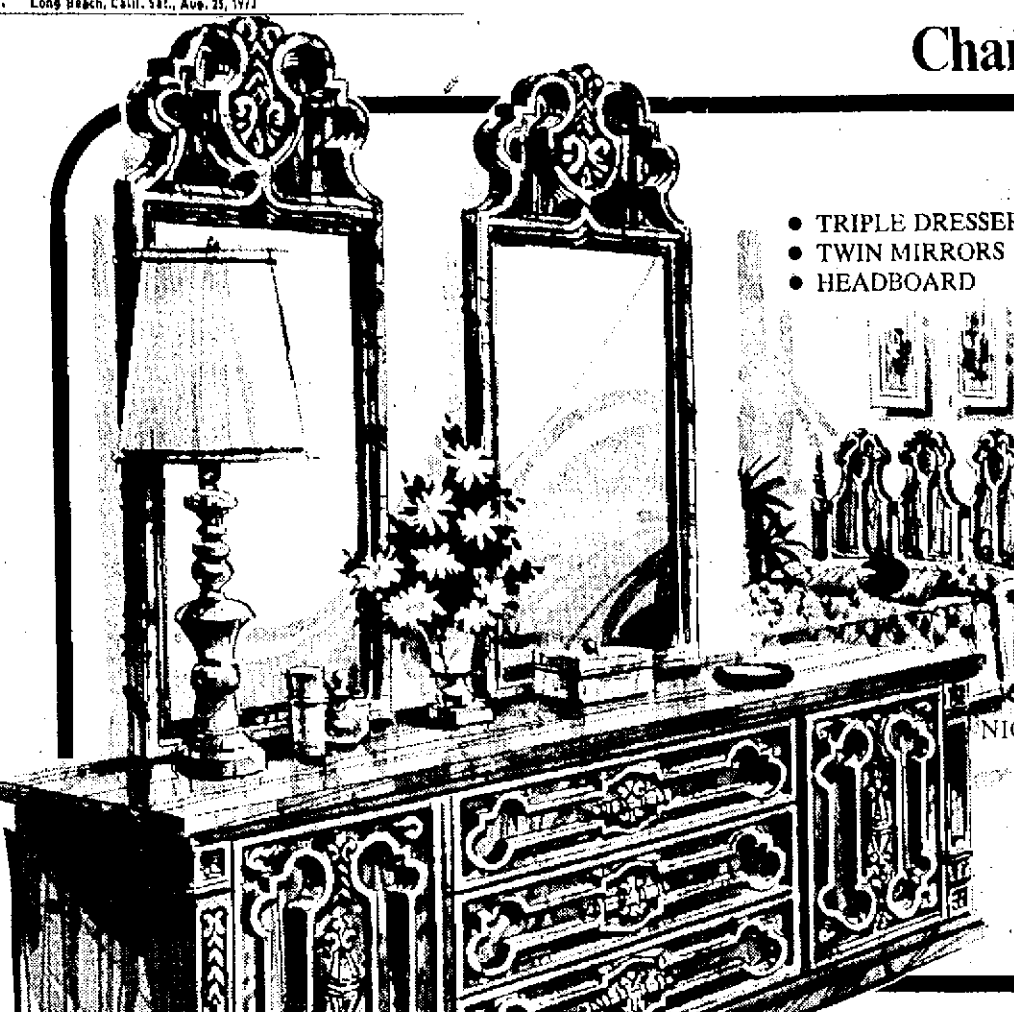

"That means a price of 79 cents a pound, compared with 81.18 cents that I had been paying," he said.

ASKED WHETHER he would continue coming to the this source for beef, he said, "I'm considering it. I plan to take a close look at it in the future."

Gersten, a native New Yorker, said it was his first trip to the farm and ranch country.

Butz rips Cranston food view

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz Friday accused Sen. Alan Cranston of trying to "set farm people against city people."

Butz said the California Democrat "ought to get out among the farmers."

"You have to recognize Sen. Cranston is a candidate up for re-election. Frankly, I think he does a disservice to the American people in trying to set farm producers against consumers... farm people against city people."

Cranston said Wednesday that Butz should be fired because he "more than any other man must bear the responsibility for the shocking rise in food prices and shortages."

BUT BUTZ told a press conference, "It's hard for me to believe that Sen. Cranston is unhappy with the fact that farmers are at last getting a decent income, that he is unhappy our wheat farmers at last getting a decent income, that he is unhappy our wheat farmers in the Western United States are at long last getting a decent price for their wheat."

"He's trying to blame farmers for the alleged high price of food," Butz added.

"Farmer prosperity is up, farm income is up, the income of rural communities is up," Butz said.

Butz also defended the U.S. wheat sale, saying it was only one-fifth of the total $5 billion in wheat exported that year by America.

"IN RETROSPECT it was a good sale. I would do it again," he said. "We were sitting on a mountain of wheat... (at the time) and senators like Cranston were saying get rid of it."

He also said Cranston's reported charge that the Russia wheat sale drove up the price of bread was "as phony as a $3 bill."

On the subject of beef Butz said, "We will have almost as much red meat as last year which was a record year."

He also said there had been an "explosive demand" for beef for this year.

When the beef price freeze ends Sept. 12, Butz added, "There will be a little bulge in prices then. I would predict some decrease."

He did not say how much the "little bulge" would be, but California Agriculture Director C. B. Christensen, who also appeared at the press conference, predicted it would be about 25 per cent.

Cranston warns on cost curbs

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston said Friday if President Nixon's Phase 4 economic policy fails to halt inflation, Congress may have to lift all controls and let the nation suffer through the "pains" that could result.

Another alternative, the U.S. Democratic senator said, would be for Congress to design its own system of economic controls and try to force them on the President.

Cranston made the remarks in response to a question following a speech before some 150 Sacramento lawyers.

He was asked, "What can Congress do to control inflation?"

After chiding the President for making it "possible now for everyone to live in a more expensive neighborhood without moving," Cranston said Phase 4 should be given a chance to rein in inflation.

"If Phase 4 fails," he continued, "Congress could write its own laws and try to impose them on the executive."

Another alternative, he said, "would be to lift all controls and go through what pains might result and hope that supply and demand will level things off."

A-power cut for safety

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — Operating limitations on 10 nuclear power generating plants were ordered Friday by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The order was described as precautionary by a spokesman who said the AEC would not know until Monday "whether any of the plants would have to pull back on power output."

The 10 plants at full-power operation supply about one third of the nation's nuclear-generated electricity. The 34 nuclear plants operating in the country produce about 4 per cent of the nation's electricity.

The AEC said the principal operating limitations on the 10 plants relates to the amount of heat which can be generated by any given group of fuel rods in the reactor. All of the plants use so-called "boiling water" reactors manufactured by General Electric Co.

IN A joint statement, consumer advocate Ralph Nader and the Union of Concerned Scientists said the AEC action "is further confirmation of our basic contention that nuclear power plants are presently operating with inadequate safety margins."

The statement said the safety problem noted by the AEC action "involves a type of degradation in nuclear power plant fuel that occurs during normal operation and that can greatly increase the severity of nuclear power plant accidents."

"Several other unresolved nuclear power plant safety problems call for further restrictions on reactor operation," the statement added.

The AEC said the order was given a precautionary measure against a possible hazard related to so-called fuel densification. Fuel densification involves the shrinkage of uranium oxide pellets in the fuel rods.

IN ITS original announcement, the AEC said preliminary calculations were that "the restrictions will result in a temporary derating reduction of power levels for these ... reactors ranging from 5 to 25 per cent."

But the AEC spokesman said one of the plants involved — Boston Edison's Pilgrim Plant at Plymouth, Mass. — told the AEC it "could probably meet ... the operating limitations ... with no derating."

They think they can limit the heat without limiting the power output," the AEC spokesman said.

THE AEC spokesman said that the AEC feels that fuel densification, of itself, does not constitute a hazard, but that the question remains whether under certain conditions it could make matters worse in the event of a reactor accident.

The AEC said its regulatory staff issued the operating restrictions "to provide additional assurance that the effects of fuel densification are taken into account in the operation of these plants."

Plants affected by the orders, in addition to the Pilgrim Plant, are: Commonwealth Edison's Dresden Units 2 and 3, Morris, Ill.; Quad Cities Units 1 and 2, Cordova, Ill.; Jersey Central Power and Light's Oyster Creek Plant, Toms River, N.J.; Millstone Point Co.'s Millstone Unit 1, Waterford, Conn.; Niagara Mohawk Corp.'s Nine Mile Point Unit 1, Scrub, N.Y.; Northern States Power Co.'s Monticello Plant, Monticello, Minn.; and Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp.'s Vermont Yankee plant, Vernon, Vt.

The announcement said the exact of derating needed to meet the new restrictions on individual reactors would depend upon a number of factors, such as the length of time the fuel has been used in the reactor.

Dealers win suit

Court OKs gas price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the nation's retail gasoline dealers can raise their prices starting Labor Day weekend, according to a decision from a federal judge Friday.

U.S. District Court Judge Barrington D. Parker ruled on a suit brought against the Cost of Living Council on behalf of 165,000 dealers selling retail gasoline under the brand names of major gasoline suppliers.

Parker agreed with the dealers' allegation that Phase 4 regulations unfairly discriminated against them. An attorney for the plaintiffs said that since independent gasoline dealers did not enter in the suit, the decision "would probably not" affect them. But a council spokesman said if the ruling withstood government appeal then "it would only be reasonable" for the council to allow independent dealers to raise their prices too. The judge's decision came as some dealers planned weekend closings to protest Phase 4 regulations. The American Automobile Association warned motorists that they would face problems getting gasoline while traveling Interstate 70 through Indiana this weekend. The court ruling, if it stands, would lift controls starting Sept. 1 for the retail gasoline dealers pumping major fuels. The Justice Department is filing an appeal. Gasoline prices are frozen now. Phase 4 controls on gasoline prices were scheduled to go into effect at midnight the night of Friday, Aug. 31, retaining a price lid for many dealers. The suit was brought by dealers Murray Anderson of Waycross, Ga., and Joseph J. Grish of Detroit and supported by the National Congress of Petroleum Refiners, an association of branded gasoline dealers. Parker said the way the regulations were applied to the retail gasoline dealers "is arbitrary and capricious." He said the controls violated the due process clause of the Fifth Amendment. The judge contended the gasoline dealers were the only small businesses with 60 or fewer employees which are covered by the price controls. Parker, granting a request for a preliminary injunction, held that the dealers "have made a sufficiently strong show" and were likely to win a final ruling. The judge said this was the only group "whose principal supplier is allowed to pass on his costs both in product and otherwise to the plaintiffs while then, in turn, may not pass on such costs to their sales to the general public."

He declared that if he allowed these controls to go into effect Sept. 1 plaintiffs and substantial members of the class would go out of business or otherwise sustain substantial and severe economic injury.

Government eyes gas guzzling tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seeking weapons against the energy crisis, federal officials are thinking of a tax penalty for new cars that consume a lot of gasoline.

Interior Under Secretary John C. Whitaker said Friday that various federal agencies are studying the tax idea, aimed at encouraging the sale of vehicles with good fuel economy.

His disclosure came just one day after the Environmental Protection Agency asked auto makers to label new cars, voluntarily, to show their miles-per-gallon performance as calculated by EPA.

While some small cars deliver as high as 26 or 28 miles per gallon in the EPA test simulating city driving, the national average is only 13.5 miles per gallon.

EPA estimated that if the average were raised to 20 miles per gallon by 1980, the nation would save more than $16 billion and 32 billion gallons of fuel per year.

The notion of taxing fuel consumption, however, has a long way to go.

Whitaker said study of the idea is still in a very early stage, under the leadership of Eric Zausner, deputy assistant secretary for energy.

Whitaker's deputy Kenneth Lay said several other agencies including EPA, the Treasury Department and the White House Office of Energy Policy are participating.

If the administration proposed a fuel-consumption tax, it would require passage by Congress.

Then, Lay said, some three to five years would have to be allowed for auto makers to revise their designs and tooling as needed to make fuel-saving cars.

Whitaker said such a tax could be applied directly to gasoline mileage as determined by the EPA for each vehicle, or indirectly by taxing horsepower or vehicle weight or some combination of factors.

Meanwhile, the federal government is under presidential orders to cut its own energy use by 7 per cent within one year, and Lay said that campaign will include government purchase of smaller cars.

EPA has pointed out that vehicle weight is the biggest single factor in gasoline mileage, while automatic transmission, air conditioning and anti-pollution controls siphon off additional miles from every gallon of gasoline.

$650 a month

UAW details pension demands

By EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT — The United Auto Workers Friday gave Chrysler Corp. full details of the union's proposal for a program that would allow Chrysler workers with 30 years of service to retire with pensions of $650 a month.

More than 10,500 workers would be eligible within three years under the UAW demand.

There was no immediate response from Chrysler, which is under pressure to come to contract terms with the UAW by Sept. 14 or face a strike by 127,500 workers.

The "30-and-out" retirement program is one of the key UAW demands in this year's auto contract talks with Chrysler, General Motors and Ford. But union leaders refused to rank its priority along with higher wages, an end to compulsory overtime, a dental plan, and the remainder of more than 400 demands.

The key feature of the retirement program would give workers with 30 years' service a chance to retire with a $650 a month pension. At present, workers with 30 years' service can retire at age 56 with a $500 a month pension. The current pension is reduced by each year below age 56.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, who returned to Chrysler while the staff detailed the plan, refused to list it any higher than other demands. Company negotiators have asked the union to list its priority demand before the company counters with economic offers.

"We won't list the priorities, we won't play that game," Woodcock said. "I hope they won't waste time playing silly games."

"It is amazing, though, how their wisdom appreciates as the magic hour approaches. They know what it takes to get a settlement," he said.

More than 5,700 workers had 30 years in with Chrysler as of Jan. 1 and will be immediately eligible for retirement if the UAW wins "30-and-out." Another 5,000 will complete 30 years' service during the life of a three-year contract.

HEW refuses to halt allotted funds holdback

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Health, Education and Welfare Department spent $1.8 billion less than Congress approved last year for social programs opposed by President Nixon, and plans to continue withholding funds this year.

Departmental briefing papers obtained Friday by UPI indicate that HEW has settled into a fiscal holding pattern on health, school aid and other forms of federal assistance until Congress takes the next step.

"Essentially what we are trying to do is to provide enough funds to permit states, localities and other recipients of HEW funds to maintain the staffs which administer these programs until final decisions are made," acting HEW Comptroller Charles Miller said in a memorandum to Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

With Nixon under a series of court challenges for trying to suspend or dismantle programs he regards as wasteful and inflationary, HEW has taken a go-slow spending approach to these programs until Congress acts on the President's new $29.8 billion request for HEW in fiscal 1974-75. The present House version of the bill totals $31.5 billion.

"Of course, for those programs where the President's budget requests a maintenance of effort equal to or greater than previous years, we will continue our past practice of making regular monthly or quarterly allocations of grant and contract funds," Miller wrote Weinberger. Miller told UPI his department recently started providing some social program funds under a continuing resolution by which Congress approved spending at last year's level until a new appropriations bill is approved. This means financing will vary from program to program, but in no case will it be higher for any program than it was in 1972-73.

HEW told the House Commerce Committee it withheld $1.1 billion — or nearly $1 out of every $4 authorized by Congress — for family planning, mental health, biomedical research and other health projects last year.

Included in the cutback was $59 million for the National Cancer Institute, a major presidential priority.

The HEW briefing papers disclosed that the department actually withheld $1.8 billion during the 12 months ended June 30. Most of the additional $700 million was for school programs.

Power to regulate cigarettes studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard O. Simpson, chairman of the government's new Consumer Product Safety Commission, said Friday his agency may have the power to ban some cigarettes above a certain tar and nicotine level.

"I conclude," he said, "that it is an open question as to whether or not the commission has such authority." He added that he may be determined that he has "not only the responsibility but the duty" to regulate cigarettes.

Simpson, whose agency was created by Congress last year and began work May 14, first raised the issue Wednesday. His remarks prompted quick retort from the tobacco industry.

Horace R. Korenegay, president of the Tobacco Institute, issued a statement Thursday saying that the law which created the commission specifically exempted tobacco products. He said Simpson's remark "disqualified him from sitting in judgment."

Simpson replied that he first began looking into the issue when he learned that one or more members of Congress intended to ask him to ban some cigarettes under the Hazardous Substances Act — which the agency administers. He said he has not yet received the request.

As a result, he said, his staff and legal counsel began a preliminary study which concluded the act did not exempt cigarettes. He added that his staff also was working on a list of priorities of dangerous products.

"The staff has not yet completed the study which would tell us where cigarette smoking and associated health and safety problems would appear on such a priority list in relation to all of the other products subject to our jurisdiction," Simpson said.

AMC workers split $2 million

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 13,000 American Motors Corp. workers in plants at Kenosha and Milwaukee, Wis., will share almost $2 million in the company's profits this year, United Auto Workers officials announced Friday.

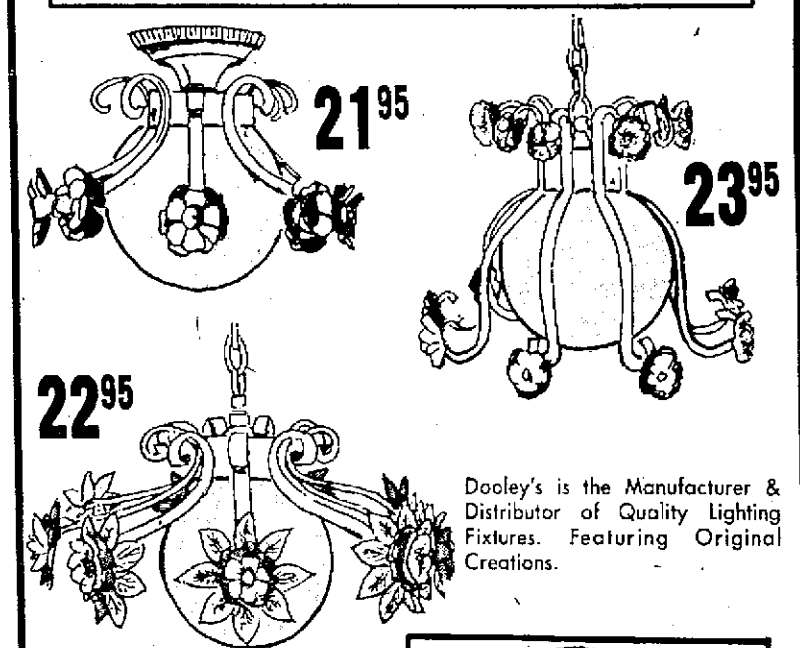

In announcing the amount available for profit-sharing, UAW President Leonard Woodcock said it was the first payout from the AMC plan since 1966.

Phnom Penh airport hit by first shells since bomb halt

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, Saturday (AP) — Communist-led Khmer Rouge insurgents shelled the capital's Pochentong military and international airport just before dawn today for the first time since the U.S. bombing halt 10 days ago.

The airport is four miles west of Phnom Penh.

The military command said three Soviet-built 122mm rockets fell in an open area 200 yards off the southern end of a runway. The command reported no casualties or damage.

The first convoy to travel from Saigon to Phnom Penh without U.S. air cover arrived in the capital safely Friday night with a cargo of badly needed fuel for the gas-rationed city.

Despite the airport attack, Cambodian government authorities said the terminal remained open to commercial flights.

Government forces reacted to the attack with a barrage of antiaircraft fire from 105mm and 155mm howitzers supplied by the U.S.

The Cambodian command said that several hours before the rocket attack, government infantrymen backed by bombers intercepted and dispersed rebel infiltrators about six miles north of the airport, the same general area from which the missiles were believed fired.

In Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city 47 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, government forces succeeded in neutralizing rebel fire against the airfield and positions one mile from the city near Tonle Bet, the Cambodian command said.

The seven-vessel convoy, escorted by Cambodian air force T28 bombers and naval gunboats, met only light resistance from insurgent forces along the 60-mile stretch of the Mekong River from the Vietnamese border to Phnom Penh.

Previously, convoys had been escorted by American warplanes, but U.S. bombing in Cambodia ended Aug. 15 on orders of the Congress.

SHORTLY before the convoy arrived, gas rationing for private citizens was announced in Phnom Penh. Each person is to be limited to 7 1/2 gallons of gasoline per week.

The amount of supplies brought by the convoy, made up of two freighters carrying rice and seven fuel tankers, was not disclosed.

One freighter was reported hit by an insurgent-fired rocket, but damage was slight and no one was injured.

For the second successive day, government forces were reported to have made advances in the Phnom Penh area. A relief column that had been stalled for two months broke through to a besieged garrison at Trapeang Thnot village, field reports said.

In neighboring Thailand, U.S. and Thai authorities announced plans for withdrawal of 3,550 U.S. servicemen and more than 100 planes as a first step in reducing American forces there.

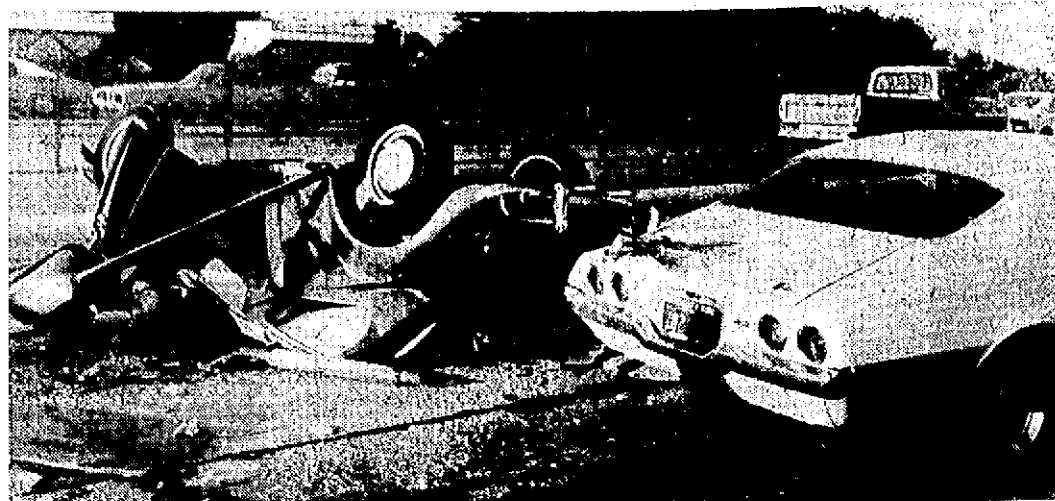

NO DATE was given for the men to leave, but some sources said it could be as soon as next week.

The initial withdrawal will bring the number of U.S. troops in Thailand to fewer than 40,000. The United States now has some 600 aircraft at seven Thai bases.

Sizable U.S. forces have been in Thailand since 1962 when President John F. Kennedy dispatched 4,600 U.S. Marines there. More troops and air units were assigned during the presidency of Lyndon B. Johnson, who ordered the first air strikes against North Vietnam from Thailand in 1965.

The U.S. military presence in Thailand has become a problem for Thai leaders. They are faced with domestic opposition to the Americans and with the prospect of appearing warlike to neighboring Laos and Cambodia, where Communist-led factions appear likely to gain a measure of control.

AT THE same time, Thai leaders have stated that some U.S. military presence is essential to Thailand's security.

Freeway crash fatal to two

Four-car chain reaction accident Friday on the Artesia Freeway near Bellflower Boulevard left two drivers dead and two others injured, one of them seriously. Authorities said car driven by Richard Kekona, 30, address unknown, flipped over median fence into opposing traffic about 5:50 p.m., landing on top of car shown on left, above, driven by Darryl Cole, 47, of Riverside, killing both drivers. Kekona's car then slammed into Volkswagen driven by Mary F. Naw, of 1714 Cartagena Ave., Long Beach, who was reported in serious condition at Paramount General Hospital. Mrs. Naw's car then hit car driven by Darrell Pawl, 26, of Tustin, who was treated and released. Authorities said a three-mile long line of traffic was stalled more than an hour by the accident.

Government tentatively rests case in trial of Gainesville 8

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The government tentatively rested its case Friday in the Gainesville Eight conspiracy trial and the judge set aside Monday for defense motions.

The prosecution has called 27 witnesses, seven of them informers who said the defendants, all members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, planned attacks with guns and bombs during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Jack Carrouth said, "I believe at this time we are through with our witnesses on the merits of the case." He added, however, that the government may reopen its case later to hear from two more witnesses.

Seven of the defendants are charged with plotting violence while the GOP met in Miami Beach. The eighth is charged with failing to report crimes by the others.

U.S. District Judge Winston E. Arnoff recessed the trial until Monday, when he said he expected defense motions would be argued. He allowed the jury, which had been sequestered, to go home until Tuesday. The trial began July 31.

Arnoff, who earlier ordered principals in the trial not to discuss the case outside the courtroom, asked newsmen covering the trial if they planned weekend stories. When told all did, he said he would take a chance on the jury not reading the reports.

The prosecution did not call two Miami area men who had done undercover work in the case — Dade County Police Sgt. Gerald Rudolph and informer Manuel Pablo Fernandez.

Dade Police Sgt. Harrison Crenshaw, Rudolph's partner, admitted under cross-examination Friday that police never found the automatic weapons and bazookas which he said two of the defendants talked about using during the GOP convention.

But Crenshaw insisted that defendants Donald P. Perdue and Alton C. Foss discussed using explosives and guns during the GOP convale.

Crenshaw testified Thursday that he infiltrated the VVAW in 1972 during convention planning. He told of a plot for massive disruptions of the GOP convention.

Union calls off Russ trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's largest public employees union canceled an official visit to the Soviet Union, Friday, citing the hostile treatment of Jewish fans and athletes at the World University Games in Moscow.

William Lucy, secretary-treasurer of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, said the union accepted an invitation from the U.S.S.R. State Institutions Workers Union to exchange ideas with their Russian counterparts.

"Although we have no reason to believe the unsettling events of recent days are condoned by the Soviet trade unions, we do believe that in a national climate colored by overt hostility to ethnic minorities no meaningful communication can result," said Lucy, who is black.

Lucy was to have headed a six-man delegation on the 17-day trip which was scheduled to begin Friday.

Europe's in no hurry for Nixon

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic officials said Friday that European leaders, unprepared for summit talks, want President Nixon to postpone his planned European visit until next year.

Reports from Washington earlier this week that Nixon might visit Europe by the end of October met with a notably cool reception in European capitals. There was embarrassed official silence, but diplomatic officials left little doubt that the presidential visit would offer better prospects if it were put off at least until sometime next year.

The officials said the Europeans are in disarray and are not ready for crucial talks with the President which are intended to shape the future of the transatlantic relationship, they said.

A premature start of vital negotiations on a new Atlantic charter-type agreement could in their view do more harm than good. Another argument is that a few months delay might help smoothe over the damage done to the presidential image in Europe by the Watergate.

Joking, alert Hayes spends a good night

County Supervisor James A. Hayes remained in satisfactory condition Friday night at Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where he is recovering from a cerebral artery spasm suffered in his home Wednesday night.

Doctors said the 51-year-old Hayes spent a good night Thursday and was resting comfortably Friday, sitting up and joking with attendants.

A hospital spokesman said although Hayes' blood pressure was still fluctuating, it was "generally down to a desirable range."

In addition to Sneider, who was on the National Security Council staff before assuming his present post as deputy assistant secretary, six former staff members have been identified as targets of the telephone surveillance operation.

They are Helmut Sonnenfeldt, now the Nixon administration's nominee for under secretary of the Treasury; Morton Halperin; Winston Lord; Daniel I. Davidson; Anthony K. Lake; and Richard Moose, now a consultant to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

William Safire, a former speechwriter for President Nixon and now a columnist for The New York Times, was also a target of the surveillance. In addition, the telephones of four newsmen were tapped. They were William Beecher, then a military correspondent for The New York Times and now deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs; Hedrick Smith, then a diplomatic correspondent of The Times and now its Moscow bureau chief; Henry Brandon, the Washington-based correspondent of the Sunday Times of London; and Marvin Kalb, who covers the State Department for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Art aid

About two months ago I inherited a family heirloom which is in need of restoration. I immediately contacted the Museum of Art in Long Beach and was advised to make an appointment with their curator. I've called repeatedly and even made two visits but the curator is never available. Then I was told she was available to the public for consultation on the first Sunday of each month. So on Aug. 5 I again carried my heirloom to the museum only to find it closed. Do I have to be a V.I.P. to qualify for an interview? H.L., Long Beach.

The museum no longer arranges private consultations by appointment, but holds a free "Curatorial Clinic" on the first Sunday of each month from 3-5 p.m. August's clinic, however, had to be canceled due to broken glass and other litter left on the grounds the day before by Sea Festival spectators, Wahnetia Robinson, curator, explained. She said she would be happy to examine your heirloom and recommend several reliable restoration experts. The next clinic is scheduled Sept. 2 at the museum, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. No appointment is needed.

Dentures

On April 17, my husband and I ordered dentures from the Dr. Kaye Dental Group in Bellflower and paid the total bill of $614 on May 1. Neither of us can wear the new dentures because they don't fit. They tried twice without success to make mine fit. I insisted on seeing Dr. Kaye and when I did he told me there was nothing he could do unless I gave him my old dentures to copy. I refused. I didn't want duplicates of my old ones and I was afraid they might get broken if I left them there. We spent $614 and have nothing to show for it. Can you help? Mrs. R.D., Long Beach.

No. When we finally reached Dr. Paul Kaye, after weeks of telephoning, he said he would not discuss your complaint with us because he didn't have your written permission to do so and because "I choose not to discuss" a patient and dentures "with a layman." You can complain to the State Board of Dental Examiners, 107 S. Broadway, Suite 7117, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012, though it is problematical whether they will be able to resolve the problem. The American Dental Association, to which most private dentists belong, has a committee to mediate such problems, but Dr. Kaye is not a member. The association considers advertising unethical for a dentist and so the so-called "credit dentists" who advertise are not members.

Roll aid

In April, I took a roll of film to the Fotomat store at 11965 Valley View St., Garden Grove. Since then, I have stopped at the store almost every day to inquire about my film. Each time I'm told to leave my phone number and someone will call. No one ever does. I have asked to speak to some one in charge, and I was told the manager doesn't talk to customers. I suspect my film has been lost, but no one will admit this. Can ACTION LINE help? L.H., Garden Grove.

Your pictures apparently have been lost and the Fotomat Co. is sending you two new rolls of film. "We'll give him two rolls instead of one because of the poor treatment he has received," said Deborah Tibbetts, customer service manager for Fotomat's Orange County headquarters. "I know the new film doesn't replace the lost pictures, but it's the best we can do under the circumstances," she added. Miss Tibbetts said she would search the processing plant's records to see if your film may have been sent to the wrong store. If you have any further questions, call Miss Tibbetts at (714) 538-8833.

No frozen asset

On July 18 I got some meat from the locker we rent at the Bellflower Frozen Food Locker, 10329 E. Artesia Blvd., Bellflower. When I got home I found all the meat was spoiled. I was told there had been some problem with the freezer unit and that if I would contact the owner, Howard Buysman Jr., the meat would be replaced. I've called Buysman numerous times but he's never returned my calls. I'd like to at least find out who his insurance agent is so I can submit a claim. Can you help? M.C., Long Beach.

No. We also were unable to reach Buysman. The business has changed hands — leaving a trail of disgruntled customers with complaints ranging from missing meats to spoilage — and the new owner denies any responsibility. "If we were to make good on all these complaints, it'd cost us thousands of dollars," Jacob Bosma, new owner, said. A spokesman for Buysman's insurance agent told us Buysman never obtained spoilage coverage because "his equipment was not up to standards to qualify for insurance."

Fire losses called worst ever in state

Associated Press
Five forest fires blackened 74,000 acres in Northern California and burned 250 million board feet of timber this week in what forestry experts are calling the "greatest total timber loss in the state's history."

"In the Eldorado forest the old growth was probably 200 to 300 years old, and it will be at least another 100 years before that timber is harvestable again," Brian Barrette, information officer for the state Division of Forestry, said.

Barrette said it was impossible to predict the long-range damage to the plant and animal life in areas of Tehama, Stanislaus, Mendocino, and Eldorado Counties where fires swept through thousands of acres of watershed and timberland.

"If everything dies in the burn areas, you won't want to walk through those woods for another 20 years," Barrette said. "The fires will probably force all the animals still alive into other areas, and there's going to be a bad problem with feed for deer and other animals this winter."

"THE TOTAL loss in timber of these fires may well be the greatest timber loss in the state's history," Barrette said.

The Eldorado National Forest was the last of the state's five major fires to be contained. The blaze was contained Friday after a seven-day battle to hold a 28-mile-long fire break around the 10,600 acres of heavily timbered land.

Meanwhile, 400 fire fighters in Nevada contained a sagebrush fire that charred 350 acres and destroyed a barn and two sheds nine miles north of Reno.

All five of Northern California's fires were "Man caused" according to agency spokesmen. Dick Serino, information officer for the U.S. Forest Service, said the Eldorado fire may have been arson.

"WE HAD two fires break out in a matter of minutes within miles of each other, and they occurred in locations where people wouldn't normally stop for sight seeing or to take a smoke," Serino said.

The Eldorado fire, which burned only a few miles west of where the "Icehouse Fire" swept through 100 million board feet of timber in 1959, had threatened the small American River resort community of Kyburz. But no buildings were damaged.

Highway officials said Highway 50 from Placerville to Echo Summit would be closed at least until Sunday. They added restricted speeds would be imposed after the highway was reopened.

The five fires have scorched 74,492 acres of watershed and timberland in Northern California, and forestry officials estimate timber and watershed losses at least $42.3 million.

BOTH THE U.S. Forest Service and the state Division of Forestry are authorized to pay $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of arsonists.

"It's a tragic fact that about half the fires in the state — and there are 50 a day — are incendiary," a spokesman said.

A U.S. Forest Service spokesman, Jerry Gausz, said the service was lifting its fire restrictions on areas of the state.

But he said the "fire hazard is still critical," and that open fires are still banned in the Lassen, Plumas, Tahoe, Eldorado and Stanislaus National Forests.

BY STATE, the fire situation elsewhere looked like this:

Idaho — one uncontrolled fire burning 2,400 acres and eight contained or controlled fires burning 18,850 acres.

Oregon — one uncontrolled fire burning 11,850 acres, and seven controlled fires burning 16,425 acres.

Montana — two uncontrolled fires burning 15,125 acres, and 12 controlled fires burning 43,730 acres.

There were no uncontrolled fires in Washington, Wyoming or Nevada. Contained or controlled fires in those three states burned about 11,000 acres.

The most stubborn of the uncontained fires was the Freezeout blaze in Oregon's Hell's Canyon. The 8-day-old fire remained stable at about 11,850 acres, officials said, despite winds up to 20 m.p.h.

"IT IS IN such steep and rugged country, it's tough to get a line around it," Leonard said. There was no estimate of when it would be contained.

The only other blaze uncontained by Friday was the Tri-Creek fire burning 7,290 acres west of Thompson Falls, Mont.

The Caribou Mountain fire in northern Montana burned about 8,075 acres, about 6,000 of them in Canada.

The Pine Creek fire, burning a 2,400-acre area north of Boise, Idaho, was in an area where the Intermountain Forest Research Station spent $800,000 conducting watershed research.

A FOREST SERVICE spokesman said only $10,000 worth of research equipment was saved from the flames.

About 2,400 firefighters managed to contain the stubborn 10,600-acre Pilliken fire in the Eldorado National Forest. It was the last of northern California's five major fires.

Forestry officials said there was "a strong possibility of arson" in that fire.

Crumbly homes go for free

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The city of Wilmington found new owners Friday for 10 of its less promising homes. The price was right—the houses were free.

In what is believed to be the nation's first urban homesteading program, Mayor Thomas Maloney drew the names of the 10 new homeowners, who have 18 months to put the crumbling buildings back in good condition in order to keep them.

"I'm so excited. It was unbelievable," said Mrs. William R. Carter, wife of one of the winners.

ANOTHER winner, Annie Mae Barksdale of Wilmington, plans to use her new house for herself and her grandson. "I'm so very glad to get it," she said. "We're paying $115 a month rent."

Six of the other winners are from Wilmington, one from the suburb of New Castle and one from the Philadelphia suburb of Devon, Pa. Eight of the 10 families are black.

The 40 qualified applicants for the 10 homes had been screened by a board set up to administer the program, designed to upgrade deteriorating city residential areas.

Qualifications included building skills or other means to rehabilitate the dwellings.

THE program is patterned at least in part after one proposed in Philadelphia in 1968 by Councilman Joseph E. Coleman. The concept has drawn interest across the country in recent months.

Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and other cities have similar plans in the works. Wilmington hopes to give away 40 homes each year, and another drawing is planned for this fall.

Most of the homes given away Friday are dilapidated row houses with little or no operable plumbing, electrical wiring or heating facilities. That's where the applicants' required skills come in. Carter, for example, is a licensed contractor

Mansion dig fails to yield burial site

SACRAMENTO (AP) — No evidence of an Indian village or burials has turned up at the proposed site of the governor's mansion after 18 days of digging, State Archaeologist Francis A. Riddell said Friday.

But the digging has been confined to the top of the knoll where the mansion would be built, Riddell said in an announcement.

It has not begun at the base of the knoll where burials were found in 1938. He said this would be done by October.

The top of the knoll overlooking the American River appears to have been a workshop area, Riddell said.

Ten holes two meters square have been started. Another 13 holes are planned elsewhere on the knoll and at the site of the 1938 finds.

The artifacts found so far include clam shell disk beads, arrowpoints, stone tools and pestles, and manos used for grinding acorns, he said. The tools were for scraping, rubbing, chopping and hammering.

Some of the artifacts have been dated to the period after 300 A.D., he said. The burials found in 1938 date to the period before 300 A.D.

Indian groups oppose using the site for the mansion. They say the remains of their ancestors should be left undisturbed.

Gov. Reagan says he likes the quiet, suburban site. But political opponents say the mansion should be downtown near the Capitol.

Funding has been approved for a mansion, but Reagan would never live in it because he does not plan to run again next year.

The site was donated to the state by private citizens after Reagan moved out of a Victorian wood structure downtown shortly after taking office in 1967. He has lived in a rented home since then.

Riddell said, "No cemeteries or human bones have been found to date, and it seems unlikely that any such remains will be encountered in the upper site level."

He added, "The rarity of bone and charcoal indicates there was no intensive housework or village activity at the upper site, which appears to represent a detached workshop area where the men manufactured stone tools and women occasionally ground acorns," Riddell said.

"No evidence of house floors or work surfaces has yet been found in the highly compacted soil."

Fraud charged health spa firm

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden Venus Health and Beauty Spas of California were accused by the attorney general Friday of fraud in allegedly misrepresenting weight-reducing courses.

Representatives of Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger and Alameda County Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen obtained a temporary restraining order against the alleged frauds. Presiding Alameda County Superior Court Judge Lionel J. Wilson set Sept. 7 for a hearing on the matter.

THE SUIT sought $5,000 damages for each of 14 Alameda County residents mentioned in the action and restitution of fees to other individuals who applied for weight-reducing courses at 12 Golden Venus Spas in Hayward, Pleasant Hill, Oakland, San Francisco, San Rafael, Palo Alto, San Jose and Sacramento.

Younger's office claims Golden Venus used "bait and switch" tactics of promising potential customers one thing through advertisements and then switching the programs or increasing the rates after the customers were enrolled.

In the 100-page complaint, the state seeks to prevent the spas from soliciting lifetime contracts, promising free visits if people sign up for a series in the program and halt price increases. The suit also said the spas failed to provide customers with copies of contracts.

NAMED as defendants were 20 managers of the weight-reducing studios and Robert M. Schwartz, president of the parent company, Slender-Bolic Health Industries Inc. of Houston, Tex.

The suit alleges violations of the California business and professional code and the state's civil code regarding fraud and misrepresentations.

Deceptive ads laid to chain store

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city of San Diego filed a $150,000 suit against Ortho Mattress Inc., Friday, accusing the Los Angeles-based chain of deceiving customers with a "bait and switch" technique.

City Atty. John Witt said the suit contends Ortho deceptively lures customers with a massive advertising campaign for low-cost mattresses, sofas and other furniture.

"Once into the store, the customer finds the lower-priced merchandise is disparaged by sales personnel, who state the materials are not fit for use or are outright unsafe for one's health," Witt said.

"The customer is immediately shown higher-priced Ortho merchandise."

He said customers responding to an ad for a $118 bed have been sold as much as $479 worth of merchandise after being talked out of the cheaper item.

1890s gals liked sex, survey shows

STANFORD (UPI) — Victorian women in the 1890s enjoyed sexual relations just as much as the liberated women of today, a decades-old survey found in the Stanford University archives showed Friday.

Pulitzer prize-winning historian Carl N. Degler found the 10-volume survey while preparing a book on American women. He said the study was compiled by Dr. Clelia Duel Mosher, an 1893 Stanford graduate who became a physician and then returned here as a professor.

Forty-five women—22 college graduates—were queried by Dr. Mosher about their sexual attitudes.

Some of the questions were:

"Do you always have a venereal orgasm when you have sexual relations?" Seventy-five per cent answered in the affirmative.

"Do you have a desire for sexual relations?" A majority said "Yes."

"Do you use birth control?" Almost all did.

"Is the justification for sexual intercourse pleasure, necessity or reproduction?" Many responded that necessity and pleasure were their motives and reproduction was not enough.

Degler, who wrote "Women in Economics" in 1955, said the survey proved Victorian women were no more sexually repressed than those born in the 1930s and 1940s.

Degler pointed out that the women surveyed were "Members of the upper class, traditionally and supposedly the most repressed and the least concerned with bodily functions."

Gals put down Atlas—get a lift

United Press International

A group of feminists rallied in front of the statue of Atlas in New York's Rockefeller Center Friday and unfurled a banner reading "Atlas, you've held us up too long."

The protest against what they said was male dominated institutions was one of a series of demonstrations, parades and meetings to be held during the week to celebrate "Equal Rights Day" Sunday, the 53rd anniversary of the women's suffrage amendment to the Constitution.

THE National Organization for Women, which is coordinating much of the activity across the country, said there will be a parade in St. Louis, a fair and ecumenical prayer in Philadelphia and a day-long seminar in Jackson, Miss., among other events during the weekend.

The group's active New York branch has been carrying out protest actions most of the week, including a demonstration Thursday at the New York Stock Exchange protesting "male domination of the Wall Street empire."

THE group had announced earlier that the weekend demonstration would draw attention to the equal rights amendment still pending in a number of states and concentrate on economic issues and the group's "action year against poverty."

LAURA Scharf, one of the demonstrators, said the action was in protest "of the sexual oppression of women by various male dominated institutions such as the church, medicine and psychiatry."

She said the same skills would be repeated today at a mock funeral which the group said would be held "in memory of the unknown women who departed this life by the horrors of illegal abortion."

The Saturday protest was to take place within sight of the State of Liberty.

Tax relief asked for single family heads

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A tax relief measure aimed at helping single women raising a family won Senate approval Friday.

The bill would lower state personal income tax paid by unmarried heads of households to "the same rate as paid by married couples," according to the measure's author, Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park.

Last year Gov. Reagan vetoed a similar bill by Cline. But Cline said some amendments which reduce the bill's cost by about $13 million a year will convince the governor to sign the latest version.

As approved 25-2 by the Senate, the state will lose about $17 million a year by this readjustment in its tax scale, Cline estimated.

"I see no reason that working parents who are off of welfare and contributing positively to the economy of the state should pay higher taxes than their married counterparts," Cline said in justifying his bill.

He said under current law a married couple filing a joint return on a taxable income of $10,000 would pay about $140 in state income tax whereas a single head of household would pay about $250 with the same income.

The measure was sent back to the Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.

Cline's bill is AB 6.

Stars to testify for arts promotion bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Charlton Heston, Edie Adams and other Hollywood figures will testify Wednesday at a public hearing in support of a $777,819 bill for the promotion and support of the arts in California, it was announced Friday.

Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, author of the bill said it would revise the duties of the California Arts Commission and provide arts funding on a two-for-one basis with public private institutions.

The hearing will be held by the Assembly Governmental Organization Committee.

In addition to Heston and Miss Adams, Gregorio said other witnesses would include Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of the San Francisco Opera; Robert Wise, Academy Award winning director; Gordon Davidson, artistic director of the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles; and Thomas Keeney of the 60,000-member musicians' union in California.

Bowl concert reunites Foster, Philharmonic

By DAVID LEVINSON Staff Writer

The music was as bosky as the setting at the Hollywood Bowl Thursday. The sky was clear, the police helicopters stayed away and the audience was in a proper C-major mood for the program selected by conductor Lawrence Foster and pianist Stephen Bishop.

It opened with Beethoven's "Prometheus" overture. The work is no more important than the music of Sir Arthur Sullivan. It is also as delightful, and as dramatic, in the same fairy-tale way. Fosters reading caught the drama without forcing it, and it captured the delight without being cute about it.

Foster was formerly the assistant conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic. He is now music director in Houston and conducts the Royal Philharmonic in London in some strange British arrangement that makes him the "principal guest" on the podium. He seemed to get along well with his old orchestra Thursday. The performances he evoked were precise. They were idiomatic, yet playful, in the overture, in Beethoven's Mozartean first piano concerto and in the last of the classical symphonies, Schubert's last and biggest, No. 9.

BISHOP's performance of the concerto was a marvel of clean articulation. The fireworks soared on schedule. Beethoven's magnificent out-of-proportion first movement cadenza was the dazzler the composer must have made of it, and indeed Bishop found and exploited every bit of tough-

Schubert's Ninth was the victim of some sluggishness in the first movement, but the horns and the woodwinds were deliciously Viennese, the strings were together and the symphony finally was an ordered, green world.

Foster returns to the Bowl podium today with the Roger Wagner Chorus and some distinguished soloists in a concert performance of Puccini's "La Boheme."

Third World War at Amphitheater

By DENISE KUSEL
Staff Writer

War zeroed in on the Universal Amphitheater Thursday night and turned the usually middle-of-the-road entertainment complex into a combat zone.

If you need a classification for the group, they're Third World musicians making a personal statement about society through their music.

They have a no-nonsense approach to patter on lifestyles and pack their music with an arsenal of explosive talent.

For season ticket holders, War came on as a real surprise. Most of the Amphitheater talent has been low-key summer concert material. War may have been a shocker to some people, but I didn't see anyone get up and walk out of the theater.

How do you turn your back on a sound that grabs you by the shoulders and shakes you with a dynamite sound?

Every war has its hero. Thursday night it was Lee Oskar.

Oskar came prepared. He wore an ammunition belt around his slim waist loaded with harmonicas. Oskar blows mouth harp, pulling out each note with such texture and resonance, I found it hard to believe it was one man playing a small instrument, cupped in his hand, and hidden behind a microphone.

Some of the other musicians should have taken Oskar's musical advice: He used his as a vehicle for venting anger and hungry emotions.

He didn't bad mouth the audience like the others, nor draw them explicit vocal pictures of the rage and hopelessness of ghetto life. The audience didn't go to a concert to be insulted.

The lyrics to "The World is a Ghetto" were enough to bring the message into focus. The audience, a mixture of "Third World" with sprinkles of San Fernando Valley suburbanites probably didn't need to hear "we have to get together 'all" pronouncements crammed down their collective throats. The rage of War should be reminded that the thirst for a better life is not limited and imprisoned by visible boundaries. They are just as deeply felt in all facets of life.

War is a group, by their own definition, that is teetering on the brink of the big time success. They deserve it. Their hard working collective sound springs into tightly wound action.

Charles William Miller blows a hot sax. Miller is from Long Beach and along with Howard Scott ("The pride of Enterprise Junior High in Compton"), and "B.B." Dickerson on bass, they began playing together in small San Pedro clubs in 1958.

With the addition of "Papa Dee" Allen on congas and bongos, Lonnie LeRoy Jordan on electric piano, Harold Brown, also from Long Beach on drums, and Oskar, the group really began to cook, reeling out some heavy sounds like "Slippin' In the Darkness," "The World is a Ghetto," "The Cisco Kid," and their latest promise, "Gypsy Man."

'MIKADO' UPDATED

Robert Oshins, a member of the White House staff during the Truman administration, has written the book and lyrics for "The Incommunicado Mikado," which is to be premiered Sept. 7 and 9, at 8:30 p.m., in the Grand Salon of the Queen Mary in Long Beach.

Director of Research for the Democratic National Committee during and after the 1960 Kennedy campaign, Oshins has recently retired after 30 years in public service.

In collaboration with Henry Reese, Oshins has created a 1973 counterpart to the political satire devised by Gilbert and Sullivan in 1885. Sullivan's score has been adapted by Roger Chapman, composer and conductor and a former member of the UC Santa Barbara music faculty.

Performances, after the premiere showings, are scheduled Mondays through Thursdays at 8:30 p.m., with matinees only on Saturdays and Sundays at 2:30.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

A few days ago my neighbor was admiring his pink flowering Achilleas with their fine lacy-like foliage. He also pointed to the old-time single petunia he had planted at the base of a Washingtonia fan palm and remarked what a hardy and beautiful plant it is.

Believe me, I sure was glad to hear him make that statement instead of me, because I began to wonder if I was particularly partial to that type of petunia.

Ours is growing up a chain link fence three and a half feet high and has been blooming continuously since spring. The attractive light lavender flowers, two inches in diameter, watered since the late winter rains and is doing beautifully! Smog doesn't seem to bother it a bit.

Whether you plant this old-time petunia or others, they'll probably grow through the winter and do better next year.

ONE of our readers wrote us the following lawn problem which may help you, too. He says: "I'd like to know what the enclosed specimens of the blade grass are. They would like to get a foothold in my dichondra lawn. Would any of the selective fertilizers such as Bandini, Scott and Vigoro eliminate this type of grass? Dowpon did not seem to touch it."

Answer: The specimens of blade grass are Bermuda, devil grass. The fertilizers containing herbicides (selective) do not eliminate devil grass. They merely retard it. Dowpon must be applied when weather is hot and there's new growth of dichondra, not applied right after the lawn has been mowed. A wetter-adjuvant which some nurseries sell should be added to the dowpon mixed with water. (The wetter or adjuvant material causes herbicide to stick to the leaves.) The herbicide must be applied in a fine mist form, not with the usual tank hose or pressure-operated spray gun. The herbicide is applied stingily and when gardener has finished, the leaf growth of the devil grass looks as though it had dew on it. The herbicide is not sprayed on as though gardener has to saturate the devil grass roots! Applying carefully as recommended the herbicide is absorbed by the new leafage, carried into the system of the plant, and slowly the herbicide starts to break down the physical structure of the devil grass.

NOW, back to the turf fertilizers that contain herbicides for dichondra lawn. The recommended time to apply such fertilizer is early in October at about two to three month intervals. Four applications usually are recommended. Gardener gets a much better control of usually blade and small broad-leaf weed seeds, and also of oxalis. Maybe also a herbicide for control of the oxalis weeds. Gardener should not let a large nitrogen percentage fool him into thinking that such a special-herbicide-insecticide fertilizer provides the most value. Assuming two competitive products cost the same money, contain herbicides and insecticide and cover the same area, gardener should multiply the nitrogen content by the weight of the sack. Decimal is placed two digits from right to left. The answer means pounds of nitrogen in the sack. The same should be done for phosphoric acid and potash. Also if any trace minerals are in the sack. The product that provides the most goodies is the one the gardener should buy ... that is unless he has a money tree growing in his backyard!

Plant Clinic

COMMENT... Your letter about the Mexican Primrose was such a nice surprise, and then to see my letter in the paper was a real thrill, but the icing on the cake, was when I got two phone calls and a letter from ladies offering me primrose plants and saying that they, too, liked my flower. I am grateful to you, Dora Dean.

ANSWER... This newspaper strives to add the personal service whenever it possibly can. We appreciate your grateful note of thanks Dora Dean!

Q.—Anent a real problem to us was the good landscaping of the house we bought five years ago. The front yard was a thing of beauty. It had been completely outlined and bordered with beautiful junipers and surrounded with ajuga with a large arborvitae. It was our first home. Knowing nothing about caring for plants all we did was water and kept everything trimmed. After a couple of years we noticed the ajuga thinning. The nurseryman told us to sprinkle blood meal throughout the ajuga, and junipers. It helped a little but not that much. By this time our plants really need something. Every nursery we inquire at tell us something different to use. We are totally confused. The junipers have grown a lot but don't have a healthy look. The ajuga is now died out in spots, and our ground is hard. If we turn the sprinkler on now, the water runs off. Will appreciate any help. R. Wiggins, 13912 Fidler Ave., Bellflower, 90760.

A.—The junipers might be planted too deep which means the soil smothers the top of the root balls by an inch or more. The root ball top should be level with surrounding ground. Or, soil might be too loose and water doesn't linger around the root ball, hence plants may not be getting enough water. The soil should be firm. Sprinkler watering simply doesn't soak down around two feet which mature shrubs need. Make a furrow about 15 inches in diameter and at least two inches deep for slow irrigation. Water periodically. Or, spider mites may be holding a permanent convention on the leafage. Through a power lens look for tiny mites of reddish buff, or dark color. If found, spray with a spider mite insecticide, but not an oil spray! Ajuga should not be kept constantly moist. It needs watering down to about four inches. The original clumps—"Mother plants"—that send forth runners over the top of the soil to form a complete ground cover—might have been planted too deep or lower than the surrounding soil level and eventually soil washed over the centers thus causing them to die. After you have followed up on the probable causes of the poor plants growth, then you can think of feeding the plants. A general all-purpose plant food containing 6-10-4 formula primary fertilizers plus trace minerals would be the plant food to use. The "died out spots of ajuga" should be replanted a day or two after the soil has been thoroughly watered.

Briefly...

The real Jesus, tribesman, Satan's comeback, friends

By MARK CLUTTER

"If Jesus Christ was alive today and moved next door to most Christians, they'd probably say, 'Dammit, there goes the neighborhood.'"

This is the view of Dr. Duane Schmidt, a Des Moines dentist, who is shocking Christians with his book, "The Late J.C.," which gives his idea of how Jesus would fare in the world today. He sees Jesus as a hip-talking radical liberal who would get about the same reception as he had in ancient Judea.

Christians, he says, have built a fiction out of Jesus' life, turning him into a combination "Charles Heston, Superman and Santa Claus." He wants people to know the real Jesus.

That is a big order. The four source books are tiny and incomplete. They tell us a bit about his birth and childhood, his brief ministry, his death and resurrection. They tell us nothing of his youth. They don't tell us what he looked like. Was he a "hippie"—or did he dress and act like a dignified, skull-capped rabbi? Was he a tough-muscled peasant—or a scholar who sat reading Scripture for hours on end?

Every man, it seems, interprets Jesus according to his own cultural background and personal experience. Long ago Bruce Barton, an advertising executive wrote a best seller, "The Man Nobody Knows." His Jesus looked like a super-Rotarian, an ideal pillar of society.

Throughout history there have been many versions of the personality of Jesus. In the paintings of the Italian Renaissance Jesus and his friends look very much like Italians, while blond, blue-eyed Christs are not unknown in Scandinavia.

The wonder of the four tiny Gospels is that they speak to every era and nation. Each reader must decide what he thinks of

RELIGION

Jesus. It is almost as though Jesus said: "You have minds. Use them."

TRIBESMAN

What should a missionary do beside use prayers, hymns and sermons to make converts?

Almost everything, says Allen Elston, a Southern Baptist missionary who has almost become an Indian.

Elston started his ministry 13 years ago in the traditional manner in the Warm Springs Reservation in Oregon. He found that few Indians were attracted to the church. "So I just made myself available to whatever was going on, just to go where the Indian people go." He learned to hunt and fish and break wild horses. He became involved in their celebrations and their sadness. And he follows Indian customs. "The people are so close, you don't fragment their lives," he said.

SATAN'S COMEBACK

"Do you believe in the Devil?" one little boy asked another.

"Naw. He's like Santa Claus. He's your father." For 500 years the best minds of the Western European peoples have struggled to free themselves from the darkness of superstition. They have sought the clear, cool light of reason. They achieved a measure of education, science and freedom.

But the ugly old evils, led by the Prince of Darkness himself, are staging a comeback. The Church of Satan, started seven years ago in (of course) San Francisco, is believed to have 200,000 followers. It advocates the traditional seven deadly sins of pride, anger, gluttony, gion. He should be called "Religion Editor" or "Church Editor."

WHY CHURCH?

Churches are not for everybody. They are for believers and for seekers for belief.

It is, however, sad that many who should go to church do not. There are those who have no quarrel with churches—who, in fact, consider themselves Christians—who seldom or never attend.

This is a psychological mistake. Alienation—the feeling of being separated from the rest of mankind—is a major tragedy in our rootless urban world. In church an individual's loneliness is relieved, if only for an hour or two. He belongs to a loving community. People do care. They are one in the presence of God.

And the person who wants to can do more than sit in a pew. Most churches have activities on many levels ranging from sport to study groups. A church is a place to get to know some fine people.

Some of the more devout might argue that a church has deeper significance than this. True. But surely the act of going to church and getting acquainted is a starting point.

Young people love challenge

Latter-day Saints demand total devotion

PRESIDENT RALPH EVANS
At Norwalk Stake Center

By MARK CLUTTER
Kids today are terrible, many adults say.

The young people are undisciplined. They hate work. They steal — "rip off," they call it. They have the sex habits of rabbits. They trifle with suicidal drugs. They have no respect for authority. They hate soap and neat clothes. They are hell-bent.

Is this true? Well, there is this church full of tough Christians. It demands work — lots of work just to be a member in good standing. It demands the kind of honesty that accounts for every cent. Chastity is a major virtue. It is so strongly against drugs that it prohibits alcohol, tobacco, coffee and tea along with more dangerous kinds. It demands sacrifice — ten per cent of a person's gross income. It requires loyalty to the authority of church and family. And each member must be mindful of the needs and rights of others, first in the congregation and then in the world at large.

"The kids love it! About a third of our converts are teen-agers," said Ralph Evans, president of the Norwalk Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints. "Another third are young married couples." The church, commonly called Mormon after its sacred Book of Mormon, is the most rapidly growing of the large Christian churches in the world, Evans said.

"It is especially large on the West Coast," he said. "Our membership in Southern California is 200,000. We are doing extremely well in Asia, especially in Japan."

The Mormons have been earnest missionaries from the church's beginnings in the early 19th Century. Many of the young men devote two years to missionary work.

"The family belongs to a ward, a precisely defined geographical area. They belong to that congregation. There's no nonsense about joining a chapel across town because the preaching is better."

The presiding person in a ward is the bishop. In a sense he is the pastor, but he is not a salaried professional clergyman. The only people who draw wages are custodians, office workers and the like. Full-time officers who have not made fortunes in their businesses are given living allowances.

A chapel is full of "clergy." Men become priests at the age of 12. The life of the ward centers in the chapel. Baptism is by immersion of persons older than eight. There is Communion every Sunday. There is the seminary at 6:15 a.m. It is attended by high schoolers for four years. They study the Old and New Testaments, the Book of Mormon and church history. There is also recreation and athletics. Mormons emphasize physical fitness. Dancing groups are often outstanding. And there are Boy Scouts. The Mormons value the Scout program more than most churches.

"The church feels a spiritual responsibility to the whole person," Evans said. "We believe in education, recreation and opportunity for growth."

The stake is the governing body for a group of wards. There are 11 in the Norwalk Stake. The chief officers are the president and two counselors. There are 530 stakes.

The "capital" is Salt Lake City. Head of the church is the president, who is both chief executive and prophet. He is assisted by two counselors. The governing body is the Twelve Apostles. Below them is the Council of Seventy and the Presiding Bishopric. These bodies direct the temporal and spiritual programs of the church.

The control is limited by the power of veto, which exists at all levels. A ward, for example, must accept a bishop by vote. Those who dissent are given an opportunity to state their reasons. Even one dissent will be carefully heard.

There can be excommunication for either doctrinal or moral deviation. Heresy seldom occurs because so many of the people are well trained in doctrine. "If a bishop decided to preach something unacceptable to the church," a Mormon explained, "there might be 50 former missionaries and an ex-bishop or two to challenge him." (Bishops usually serve for several years, not for life.)

What do Mormons do beside go to church? Mostly they do rather well. Evans flipped through a listing of bishops. Their jobs were a cross-section of businesses, professions and skilled labor. There was one FBI man.

Mormons have a tendency to get rich. There are two reasons for this. People of sober and respectable habits have more time and emotional energy for their jobs. And the Mormon emphasis on honesty wins permanent customers.

There is a popular idea that there are no Mormons on welfare. This is not true, Evans said.

"There are very few Mormons on welfare," he said, "but we don't provide a dole. We help those who need help. For example, we would see to it that the widowed mother of five young children would not have to work outside the home. If there were only two children perhaps she could handle a part-time job."

"We try not to be clique-ish, but we do help each other in business and in finding work. We have an employment office in Los Angeles."

The history of the Latter-day Saints is filled with drama and heroism. The founder, Joseph Smith, told of meeting God the Father and God the Son. He was an adolescent and few believed him. But as a young man he told of the angel Moroni who brought to him golden plates containing the Book of Mormon, which he translated. The angel then removed the plates.

The Book of Mormon tells of early peoples in what is now the United States, and is held to be additional evidence of the truth found in the Bible.

The new church immediately encountered persecution of a vicious sort. Most of them fled to Illinois from New York. Many were murdered by armed mobs of fanatics. Smith himself was martyred.

They plunged into the empty West, many of them walking. Under the brilliant leadership of Brigham Young they established Salt Lake City.

The theocracy created and tempered by the hardships of the Old West is flourishing in megalopolis. Evans attributes this in part to the willingness to accept voluntary hardship.

"Many of our more affluent people give as much as 25 per cent of their gross income," he said. "I believe in tithing, and I believe that the person who gives will in one way or another receive. It is good to tithe."

The Norwalk Stake is headquartered in the almost new, $800,000 building which is also the chapel for three Cerritos wards. It is located at 17909 Bloomfield Ave., Cerritos.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

You can do what can't be done

Three thousand people gathered in the big hotel ballroom sat spellbound as my old friend addressed them. The man's oratorical mastery fascinated me: perfect articulation, admirable use of language; manner gentle and persuasive and at the same time forceful and inspiring. It was public speaking at its best. I sat there marveling at what I heard. And I had cause to marvel for I knew the history of this man.

As a boy growing up in a Chicago suburb he stuttered terribly. At school when he rose to answer a teacher's question the words would just pile up under his tongue. Though he knew the answer perfectly, he couldn't get it said. And the class would snicker. At play Al was a friendly boy and a good sport. But sometimes the other kids would call him "out" in a baseball game, purposely provoking him, just to hear him sputter. He would get all fuddled up in his attempts to get the words out. And the boys would laugh.

This embarrassing handicap made Al bitterly unhappy. He would go at night to a secluded grove of trees and pray, "Please, God, help me speak. Please help me talk without stuttering."

Well-intentioned, kindly older people told him he ought to face up to the fact that very likely he would always stutter. "It's something you have to settle for," they said, "and make the best of it."

Then one day he attended a meeting at the YMCA where he heard a speech by one time Sen. Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana. Beveridge, a compelling speaker, had the ability to stir young men. And in his speech at the YMCA that day he said, "You can do anything you want to if you want to enough and if you have faith in God and yourself."

When Al heard that statement, he believed it and was strongly motivated. He told his mother what the senator had said. But she was afraid her boy might get his hopes too high and be disappointed. So she said, "Son, to faith you must add patience. Don't lose heart if it takes a long time." So the boy developed two important factors — faith and patience — and that is a winning combination.

He had read how the great Greek orator Demosthenes put pebbles in his mouth to train himself to enunciate more clearly. So Al went and did pebble exercises in deserted spots on the shore of Lake Michigan. He would make speeches to the waves and the winds. And he continued praying, "Please God, help me speak!"

Gradually he got the impression that God was telling him, "Don't be so tense. Don't get so excited. Put yourself in My hands. Trust Me. I will heal your tongue." Of course, the trouble wasn't really in the tongue. The causes of stuttering are often psychogenic—originating in the mind and emotions. But gradually the boy found peace of mind—and the peace was transmitted to the tongue. Tension subsided.

Little by little Al overcame his stuttering. And in time he became the polished, masterful speaker whom I heard that day in a Chicago ballroom. "And if God could free me from a speech impediment like I had," he once remarked to me, "He can free a man from anything that is defeating him."

With faith and patience you can do things that "can't be done." Things which once seemed impossible (and actually were impossible for so long as you thought they were) become possible; and then possibilities become accomplishments.

Faith and patience! With these you can meet difficulties in the spirit of the slogan of the Army Engineers: "The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."

NEW PASTOR The Rev. Paul Wennes Egerton will be installed as senior pastor of St. Timothy Lutheran Church, Woodruff Avenue and Arbor Road, Sunday, at 4 p.m. Pastor Egerton comes here from Calvary Lutheran Church in Las Vegas.

GOINGS ON

Jester Hairston, choral conductor, arranger and lecturer, will lead the summer choir in a concert of spirituals and sacred songs at Garden Grove Community Church Sunday at 7 p.m.

A benefit concert for John Leighton, country and western singer who is ill with the disease that claimed the life of Lou Gehrig, will be held Sunday, 8 p.m., at the Long Beach Christian Reformed Church, 5559 E. Wardlow Road. The Gospelsaires' and His Womenfolk will sing.

The entire cast of the Continental Singers — 250 singers and instrumentalists — will present their final concert of sacred music, including the new musical, "The Apostle," in El Camino College Auditorium, Crenshaw and Redondo Beach boulevards, Torrance, Monday at 7:45 p.m. During the season the group was divided into six tours. Tour members include Randy and Shari Swansen, Lynn McClenny and Kirk Steptis, Long Beach, and Ron and Kerry Quintanal, Lakewood.

The Continental Singers will also be heard at Calvary Baptist Church, 5722 Lime Ave., 11 a.m., Sunday.

Dr. Owen Cooper, president of the 11.2 million member Southern Baptist Convention, will address the Orange Coast Southern Baptist Association Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at the First Southern Baptist Church of La Habra, 1431 W. La Habra Blvd. The choir of Mt. Tabor Missionary Baptist Church in Los Angeles will present special music.

The Californians will present a concert at First Southern Baptist Church, 5540 Orange Ave., Sunday at 7 p.m.

"Dino in Sacred Concert" will be presented at the First Baptist Church of Lakewood Sunday at 7 p.m. Dino is a concert pianist whose background includes study at the Juilliard School of Music and the Fontainebleau Conservatory. He was a piano soloist in the First Army Band.

The Rev. Jean Gold will be the special speaker at the Harbor City Foursquare Church, 835 W. 255th St., Sunday, 7 p.m.

Jim Bergthold, soloist in the "Haven of Rest" quartet, will present a sacred concert Sunday, 7 p.m., at the Community Grace Brethren Church, 5885 Downey Ave.

Letters

Religion Editor:

In regard to an item in the Saturday edition about a woman prepared for the ministry but could not be ordained until she found a parish. Why doesn't her denomination help her? Certainly there are parishes needing a pastor. All of this seems so 18th century to me.

When I was growing up in Iowa 50 years ago there were active women pastors in my church — the Universalist. They were well educated, intellectual, humanitarian graduates of college and divinity schools. Two of them,

Drs. Laura Bowman Galer and Effie McCollum Jones, were the outstanding denominational leaders at state and national conventions. Later, the Rev. Edna P. Bruner came to us from Canada and was most highly respected and admired. One other, the Rev. Jennie B. Hitchcock was retired and living in Osage while another, the Rev. Minnie O. Colegrove, co-pastored a church with her husband.

In the 50 years prior to my life, there had been a number of other women active in our state's

CHURCH HUMOR

"... then when St. Peter started reading out some of my secret sins, I made a mistake and said, 'Well, I'll be damned!'" ministry and many more in the area east of the Mississippi River. Our church pioneered the idea of equal opportunity for men and women in education (Lombard College admitted women over 100 years ago) and in all avenues of endeavor.

I grew up believing women were the equal of men and seeing them treated thus. I don't understand a church today not giving a woman theological graduate the same help they would a young man.

I just want to express the fact that I think the extreme liberationists are sometimes ridiculous BUT how backward many people and organizations are after the past 100 years.

Religion Editor:

Last week you published some letters suggesting that the Rev. A. LeRoy Young has a shallow philosophy and a rather culpable train of thought.

It appears that Rev. Young regards people as sufficiently cultured and understanding to moderate their everyday hopes and aspirations. His critics of last week suggest otherwise; that they would rather think very little or not at all and that they prefer to be sheep, literally led in willless safety.

While reading their scathing comments, I was reminded of a line from the philosopher Goethe: "For each beholds what in his bosom lurks."

RELIGION EDITOR:

Rev. Young warns Christians to remain rational and live a good life and Father Vanderhoff seems to feel that Christians should become involved in social and political reforms. I believe both men have missed the most vital aspect of Christianity—God's Grace—as found in God's Word, The Bible. Neither man mentioned this book "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life." John 3:16. This is Christianity to me.

WHAT'S HOME TO YOUR TEEN-AGERS?

Home is where you want them to find a sense of their own worth, a feeling of the goodness of life. They can see better what you're striving to give them as their values become more spiritual. Here the Christian Science Sunday School supports your efforts. And it supports them as they learn more of God's ever-present love. Home becomes happier when everyone is letting God help.

Encourage your teen-agers to attend our Sunday School, where anyone up to the age of 20 can be enrolled.

You're welcome to come to church, too.

Ex-agent bares dozen 'black bag jobs'

FBI burglary training detailed

SAN RAFAEL, (UPI) — FBI agents used to make their own lock-picking devices and practice using them in a classroom equipped with grinding wheels in the attic of the Justice Department building, a former agent said Friday.

William W. Turner, 46, an FBI agent from 1951 to 1961 who said he engaged in about a dozen illegal "black bag jobs" during his career, said "burglary was a common investigative technique."

He said he acted as a lookout during the burglary of the Japanese consulate in Seattle in 1957, broke into the Seattle homes of a local Communist party leader and a suspected Soviet spy, and once made an "unauthorized" break-in in a theft case.

Turner, who was fired in 1961 after writing Congress asking for an investigation of the agency, has been a frequent critic of the FBI, writing a book titled "Hoover's FBI" and three critical magazine articles on it. He is a licensed private investigator and freelance writer living in this San Francisco suburb.

"Only certain guys were involved in black bag operations," he said, "and they were normally approved by Washington, although never explicitly or in writing. The local agent-in-charge or supervisor had to justify them. It was not promiscuous; you couldn't get approval for something minor."

Turner said he acted as

TURNER WITH HIS BOOKS ON FBI Agents Made Own-Break-in Tools, He Says

a lookout in the break-in at the Japanese consulate by the FBI "number one burglar," George Burley, who is still with the agency in Washington, D.C.

"We had an operation to crack the safe and it took several hours in the dead of night," Turner said. He said Burley used a "cobalt X-ray" device to determine the combination of the safe.

The FBI in Seattle confirmed that Turner worked out of that office, but a spokesman had "no comment" on the burglary reports. The Japanese consulate said it was checking its records concerning a burglary in 1957.

The former agent said he was trained in wiretapping and bugging in 1958 and took a class in surreptious entry at the same time.

"Every FBI man trained as a 'sound man' took a companion course taught by Burley called 'bypassing,' which had to do with picking locks. We made our own burglary kit in a room way up in the attic of the Justice Department building, where there were grinding wheels and stuff."

"We made different sizes of picks and tension bars and put the whole thing in a little leather case like a surgeon's case. We also practiced on locks up there. We did our bugging practice in a room in the top of the identification division, which was in another building in the southeast part of Washington."

Turner said that when agents went on illegal operations, they never carried any credentials and nothing was ever written down. Any information gained was attributed to confidential sources, like "T-1, an informant who has given reliable information in the past."

During burglaries, an agent was sent to the local police station to monitor calls and make sure no officers were dispatched and other FBI men kept the occupants of the swelling under surveillance.

Teachers' unions set for merger talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to the American Federation of Teachers Convention gave their leadership a free hand Friday for negotiations toward a possible merger with the National Education Association.

They closed out a week-long convention by refusing to set preconditions for merger talks between their 384,000-member union and the NEA.

Meany criticizes Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany criticized President Nixon on Friday as again having "disappointed our hopes for the full truth" in the Watergate scandal.

In a signed editorial in the labor federation's weekly newspaper, Meany accused Nixon of ignoring "the rights of the people" in the President's latest television address on the Watergate.

"The key issue is not the conflict between the rights of the President and rights of Congress — the so-called separation of powers," Meany said.

"None of the considerations raised by the President is more important than the right of the people to know what's being done by their government and to be secure in their person and their home against lawless abuses of the trust they place in the chief executive," he said.

"The President asks the American people to trust him," Meany continued. The labor leader said trust is a two-way street and that confidence can only be restored in the government when the public learns the full truth.

But the President, he said, still refuses to answer the detailed charges against him or to release his tapes and presidential papers.

"Since we cannot get the truth from the President — for whatever reason — we must look to the Senate hearings for the full story of this ugly attempt to debate the democratic process," Meany said.

The editorial was the latest in a series of critical public statements by the 79-year-old labor leader in recent months concerning the President's handling of the Watergate affair.

U.S. scrutiny by press held must

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It is essential that the U.S. government operate in a fish bowl under the scrutiny of an adversary press, Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's former director of communications, said Friday.

"It is a system that has worked better than any other nation's," Klein told the Commonwealth Club in reply to a question. He was asked if it is possible for an institution as complex as the U.S. government to conduct its business in open fish bowl view.

"It's not only possible, but it is essential," he replied. "I believe the system should continue, despite the difficulties. I personally have felt on hearing broadcasts of some new disclosures," he said.

"It is a system that does work for the good of the people."

KLEIN, who resigned from the administration last June to become a Metro-media vice president in Los Angeles, was asked why President Nixon apparently experienced considerable difficulty in communicating while surrounded by talented communications people.

He said he believed that Nixon's overwhelming 1972 election victory was proof that he had communicated effectively before Watergate.

He said there had been "a singular lack of communication from the White House on Watergate" and this was responsible for the chipping away of the President's ratings in the opinion polls.

"But when you get something this complex, there is no simple easy answer," Klein said.

"You have to consider the rights of those accused to a fair trial."

He said he had seen the President Thursday and found him much encouraged by the response to his performance in dealing with Watergate questions the day before in his first news conference in five months.

HE SAID the President was disappointed by Watergate's damaging impact but remained determined to lead the nation in progress for peace and prosperity in the remaining years of his term.

"He is determined not to allow history to overlook the progress already achieved and that he achieved in the years ahead," Klein declared.

He said he was certain the President now will hold more news conferences soon and will have contacts with the press itself.

Klein personally urged that the country should end its obsession with Watergate questions and support the President in moving ahead with "the people's business."

Klein was asked if he agreed with Nixon's judgment of H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman as two of the best public servants he has known.

He replied that he had some disagreements with the President's onetime top aides, but there was no question that they had worked untold hours in developing and executing programs for the President.

"I'm not going to judge who's right or wrong among those who have accused in Watergate," he said.

Worst over, Baker says of Watergate

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sen. Howard Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said Friday the "worst is over" in the Watergate scandal.

"The President has been injured by Watergate but not fatally. He is going to be able to govern," the Tennessee Republican said.

Baker said people considered Watergate serious but not serious enough to remove President Nixon from office. He said he thought the American people have been "remarkably forbearing in their attitude toward Watergate."

Because of favorable nationwide exposure in the press and on television Baker is being touted as a leading Republican for the 1976 presidential race. But he reiterated he has no plans to become a presidential candidate.

"They say one has to have a burning desire or compulsion to become president," Baker commented. "I don't have such a compulsion. However, I am not afraid of it."

Carson gas cloud APCD charges chemical firm

By ROBERT GORE
Staff Writer

Three misdemeanor criminal charges were filed Friday by the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District against Stauffer Chemical Co. of Carson in connection with last Saturday's noxious gas cloud that blanketed parts of Los Angeles and Orange counties and hospitalized 40 persons.

Ralph George, APCD's chief enforcement officer, said the three counts involve two alleged violations of the state Health and Safety Code—one for emission of the gas cloud, another for creating a public nuisance and the third for allegedly operating equipment without an APCD permit.

GEORGE said each count carries a fine of $500 and maximum jail term of six months.

If jail terms are assessed on a finding of guilty, plant managers would be liable to serve them.

George added that the case will be prosecuted by the district attorney and will probably be tried in Compton Municipal Court. The decision to file charges reversed a previous decision earlier in the week by APCD to not cite the company for the incident.

Forty persons were hospitalized with complaints of nausea, irritated eyes and sore throats after a billowing white cloud of sulfur trioxide burst from a ruptured pipeline about 1:30 p.m. at the Stauffer plant at 20720 S. Wilmington Ave.

Minutes after the massive cloud was carried aloft by offshore breezes and began drifting southwesterly, Long Beach police ordered a 25-square-mile area evacuated but later cancelled the plan. A Carson housing tract was evacuated, however, as were many Orange County beaches.

An all-clear was issued by authorities about 6 p.m. when the cloud dissipated over Laguna Beach.

George explained that no criminal intent has to be established for this type violation. The verdict would be delivered on the company's liability for the accident, he said.

George said the accident occurred despite precautions taken by Stauffer to prevent the leak.

Richard Hanle, plant manager, said he had not seen the APCD violation notice Friday but that "there's no question that we emanated sulfur trioxide fumes in excess of APCD standards."

SULFUR trioxide is created when sulfuric acid is mixed with air. Saturday's leak, thought originally to be an explosion, was traced to a ruptured pipeline feeding an acid storage tank. Cause of the rupture is not known, though George said it was apparently "metal fatigue."

Also Friday the U.S. Labor Dept.'s Occupational Health and Safety Administration finished its investigation of the leak but refused to discuss findings.

Gil Garcia, OSHA area supervisor, said the week-long investigation was standard procedure and that results might be delayed a week by laboratory tests.

Rings stolen from L.B. home

Three rings totally valued at $575 were taken from the home of Frank A. Roberts, 6641 Gardena Ave., by burglars who unlocked a front door screen, Long Beach police said Friday.

Ban asked on freeway work

A group of Carson residents Friday sued the State Highway Commission in an effort to halt further construction of an extension of the Artesia Freeway.

The action was filed in U.S. District Court at Los Angeles by attorneys for the Centerview-Glen Avalon Homeowners Association. The suit charged the commission with failure to provide federally required environmental impact reports.

The suit, to be heard by Judge Irving Hill, seeks a preliminary injunction preventing construction until that report is filed.

The area in question is about five miles west of the present end of the Artesia Freeway and lies in its proposed path between the Long Beach and the Harbor freeways. The suing homeowners fear the project will cut them off from the rest of the City of Carson, an attorney for the association said.

Hot weekend facing police

By DICK EMERY
Staff Writer

The Harbor Division's ailing air-conditioner, which gasped into silence again Friday after functioning only two days, will get no helping hand over the weekend.

An emergency request for overtime for repairmen to revive the so-called "White Elephant" in the station's basement, got nowhere with the Los Angeles City Bureau of Public Buildings.

"But five men will get down here Monday morning to work on the plant," Bernard Cash, a foreman for the bureau, said after inspecting the silent engine. Meanwhile, temperatures in the station and its adjacent jail reached 80 degrees.

"Three of the five men will work on air distribution," Cash said, "and two men will work on the chiller."

THE CHILLER, he explained, is a critical part of the system, which he further described as "sophisticated and complicated."

He said the latest failure was caused by a malfunctioning oil pump.

"By Tuesday you should notice an improvement," he said.

Disappointment was expressed by officers, civilian employees and by prisoners too, when the huge engine quit again early Friday. Workmen had revived it on Wednesday, eight days after its lapse during a thunderstorm. The building and its jail have no secondary ventilation facilities, depending for air entirely on the single plant in the basement.

Home burglars get $1,010 haul

Burglars who entered the home of John Calvin O'Connell, 3800 Elm Ave., through an unlocked window took a television set and jewelry totally valued at $1,010, Long Beach police said Friday.

Something to brighten their day

Palos Verdes vote on cityhood to be heavy

By NOEL SWANN

From Our L.A. Bureau
A heavy turnout is expected Tuesday when voters in the Palos Verdes Peninsula area go to the polls in a landmark election to decide whether the area should become a city.

County Registrar-Recorder Leonard Panish has predicted a 60 per cent turnout of the 19,794 registered voters among the 35,200 residents in the area, which will become known as Rancho Palos Verdes should a simple majority choose cityhood.

ON TUESDAY'S ballot also will be 24 names of candidates running for council seats on the assumption voters will approve cityhood. Five of the top vote getters among the 24 will be automatically elected.

County officials said polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and votes from 24 precincts will be counted at the registrar-recorder's office, 808 N. Spring St., Los Angeles.

THE AREA being considered for incorporation takes in the bulk of the Palos Verdes Peninsula, excluding the so-called Eastview section in the northeastern area. The new city would cover about 12.2 square miles.

The election will be a significant occasion for homeowners in the area who have been fighting for incorporation for several years.

In 1970, proponents of cityhood won approval from the Local Agency Formation Commission to proceed with incorporation. However, opposition

Woman cited in traffic death

Charges of manslaughter and driving on a suspended license were filed against a 20-year-old Lomita woman Friday as a result of a traffic accident last Tuesday which killed one person and critically injured another.

The double complaint, with only a misdemeanor sentence possibility, was issued against Dolores Lopez Heredia by Los Angeles Dep. City Atty. Breton Lobner after Dep. Dist. Atty. Martin Oghigian had refused a police request for a felony complaint against the woman.

Killed in the midnight two-car collision at R Street and Van Tress Avenue was Lorena Robertson, 17, of Lomita. Sixteen-year-old Eleanor McAllister, also of Lomita, was injured in the crash and is reported in critical condition at Harbor General Hospital.

Police said they arrested Mrs. Heredia after she had taken field sobriety tests. She is free on bail pending her arraignment Monday in Municipal Court, San Pedro.

was mounted by major land holders and because of the law, as it was written then, the cityhood proposal was terminated.

Opponents of the concept were able to show they owned property worth more than 50 per cent of the assessed valuation in the area.

Proponents appealed to the courts and suffered a temporary setback when the state appellate court upheld the law, saying majority property holders (in terms of assessed valuation) could defeat a cityhood proposal.

PROPOSERS stubbornly pressed their case to the Supreme Court and in an historic decision, the court held the existing law unconstitutional and said cityhood could be decided by a simple majority of the registered voters.

One of the major issues throughout the fight for incorporation has been the desire of homeowners to block—as far as possible—high-rise development along the picturesque coastline. This issue will also be a major one in Tuesday's election.

The 24 candidates for the council are:

John Aguirre, architect-urban planner, 4108 Miralste Drive; William S. Banner, computer programmer, 28027 Amber-gale Drive; Louis J. "Jim" Bertsch, mathematician, 3226 Starline Drive; Byron Blue, rehabilitation specialist, 3675 Cliffside Drive; Gunther W. Buerk, administrator-engineer, 28403 Stirrup Road; Carl A. (Tony) Capozzola, deputy district attorney, 30531 Rue Langlois; Philip Daigneault, attorney, 28901 Scotsview Drive; Leland C. Dolley, attorney, 3398 El Tesoro Place; Dorian B. Dunla-vey, business woman, 3255 Parkhurst Drive.

Ken Dyda, engineer-manager, 5715 Capewood Drive; Curtis D. Goetze, financial executive, 28813 Blythwood Drive; Robert J. Hess, marketing representative, 6429 Parklynn Drive; Robert K. Marohn, application manager, 3567 Heroic Drive; Joseph O. Michell, fireman, 2072 Chandelure Drive.

Trial slated for trio in drug case

Three men charged with selling heroin, marijuana and pills to state and county narcotics officers were ordered Friday to face trial in Long Beach Superior Court.

The defendants, who appeared for preliminary hearing before Municipal Court Judge Eugene J. Long, are Joseph Robert Clemens, 23, and Kevin Charles Cunningham, both of 5025 E. Pacific Coast Highway, and David Lee Whitley, 21, of 16131 Cornuta Ave., Bellflower.

Long set Superior Court arraignment for Sept. 7 before Judge Charles C. Stratton. The defendants are free on bond—$3,000 each for Clemens and Whitley and $1,000 for Cunningham.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Everett L. Carroll said agents of the state Bureau of Narcotics Enforcement and sheriff's narcotics detectives paid out about $11,500 for drug purchases,

Develop-coast plans detailed

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

The Irvine Co. Friday spelled out its plans to develop 10,000 acres of foothills along 3.5 miles of Orange County coastline, agreed to a half-price sale of almost 1,600 acres for public parks and agreed to pay for rerouting Coast Highway through its property.

Company President Ray Watson and company land planners Richard Reese and Larry Moore outlined the proposals to a delegation of the South Coast Zone Regional Conservation Commission, other officials and the press in Newport Beach.

TWO CANYONS would be acquired by the state along with the entire beach area between them under terms of SB 1089, authored by State Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach.

The bill calls for payment of $7.6 million for the property, including most of Los Trancos and Moro canyons which dominate the 10,000 acres of foothill view land between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach.

The company said the $7.6 million is only half the appraised value of the property but it will accept that price.

In addition, Irvine will pay an estimated $3.1 million to relocate 2.6 miles of Pacific Coast Highway into the foothills along a curving route bisecting the canyons. Irvine Co. would then build housing and resort projects close to the bluffs fringing the shoreline.

The state would pay to widen the highway in the future. The relocation agreement would build a new four-lane highway according to existing standards and pay about $2.9 million for a bridge on the new Coast Highway route spanning Moro Canyon.

Included in the state's proposed acquisitions would be 418 acres in Los Trancos Canyon and 857 acres in Moro Canyon, both to be developed into regional parks; 68 acres of adjacent land, 45 acres of beach and tide pools, and about 80 acres for parking.

Sen. Carpenter, who was present at the meeting, predicted early approval of his bill to make the land purchase from the Irvine Co. and labeled it "a big bargain."

THE FRIDAY session was the first that the conservation commissioners, including Long Beach Councilmen Don Phillips and Russell Rubley, had seen of the company plan. Details will be explained to the full commission at a formal meeting later this fall. A proposal to present the plan to the commission Sept. 6 was postponed.

The company began planning the 10,000-acre development in 1969 and initially foresaw a maximum population of 80,000 by 1983. It now intends to slow growth and told commissioners it now projects a population of 50,000 by 1997.

Airman puts down weapon, quits besieged room quietly

EDWARDS AFB (UPI) — An Air Force enlisted man who barricaded himself in his barracks room last Monday with a .38-caliber pistol surrendered peacefully Friday after talking with the base psychiatrist, the Air Force said.

Airman Earl Williams, 19, St. Louis, Mo., was taken to the hospital for medical observation accompanied by his sister, who was flown here in an attempt to persuade him to come out.

"Williams appeared tired but was calm and composed," an Air Force spokesman said. "His physical condition was considered good."

The Air Force said Williams' reason for locking himself in the room was unknown. The spokesman said he came out "on his own initiative" after announcing his intention to the psychiatrist.

His sister, who asked that her name not be released, talked to the airman for several hours Wednesday night and again Thursday night.

Williams locked himself inside the room Monday afternoon and fired several random shots out the window that day and the next.

The Air Force Friday confirmed a report that Williams got the drop on an air policeman who was searching the three-story barracks on Tuesday and took away his gun and walkie-talkie.

Williams made a deal with authorities and in return for four hours of undisturbed rest he released the policeman and threw his pistol out the window, keeping his own .38.

Williams was taken to March Air Force Base near Riverside later Friday afternoon for a complete psychiatric evaluation.

Among the Air Force officials talking to Williams by telephone are the commander of the flight test center, Brig. Gen. Howard Lane; the base psychiatrist; and a staff sergeant who serves as an "equal opportunity monitor."

The Air Force strategy has been to "wait him out" rather than mount a forcible assault on the building.

Death penalty at issue

Moretti resignation called for

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Orange County District Atty. Decil Hicks said Friday he is "irritated" over legislative dallying with death penalty legislation and called for the resignation of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti.

Hicks charged that Moretti alone "is responsible for frustrating the will of the people" and said he predicts further maneuvers by the Democratic assemblyman to block the legislation on the assembly floor.

Hicks, who last year was president of the California State District Attorney Association, said the organization is on record in favor of the death penalty and approves the proposed 17 "situations" in which the death sentence could be applied.

Among them are homicide with malice, slaying of police officers, killing for hire, slaying of witnesses called in court trials, airline hijacking resulting in death and murder under aggravated circumstances.

Hicks said he personally and all other district attorneys in the state "are convinced that the death penalty is a deterrent to murder."

In Orange County, he noted, there were twice as many homicides last year as in 1971. He said removal of the death penalty "was not a factor in all of them, but certainly was in most of them."

The district attorney said 74 of California's 80 assembly districts endorsed the constitutional proposition to restore the death penalty and that the issue collected almost 68 per cent support from state voters last November.

"Yet," Hicks said, "Speaker Moretti has set himself above the will of California's electors and has sought to thwart their will."

In his opinion, Hicks said, "this demonstrates a lack of leadership by Moretti," and he called for Moretti's resignation as assembly speaker.

Alioto says Reagan must run again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph Alioto has predicted the Watergate scandal will probably force Gov. Ronald Reagan to seek another term as governor.

"I feel it is inevitable that Reagan will have to run," Alioto told a news conference Friday, apparently alluding to the widely-held assumption that Reagan is the only Republican strong enough to win after Watergate.

during six months of the fiscal year 1973-74...

"I am convinced that the amount of rebate of surplus used to replace state retail sales tax revenues, or as a rebate of state personal income taxes, is, in fact, a part of 1973-74 state tax revenues," Reagan wrote.

ASKED if that letter, would solve the potential revenue base problem in the Nov. 6 tax limitation initiative, Kenneth Hall, Reagan's chief deputy director of finance, replied:

"At this point we do not have a specific legal opinion. We have some advice that generally that would be helpful if it goes to court."

year as the base year for a formula of tax limitations.

But in a letter to Senate President pro tem James Mills, D-San Diego, and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, Reagan said that was not his intent, and he asked that his letter be placed in official Assembly and Senate records.

The letter reads, in part:

"In my opinion, this act provides for the timely and proper use of the fiscal year 1972-73 surplus in the state's general fund as a rebate of 1973 state personal income taxes and as a substitute for a portion of the state retail sales tax which would otherwise have been collected

Plight of older farm hands to be reviewed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti said Friday he had requested the Joint Committee on Aging to hold hearings on the plight of California's "forgotten" elderly farmworkers.

"No occupation group is as likely to be neglected as those people who spent all their lives harvesting California's rich agricultural output," said the Van Nuys Democrat.

"These workers too often are forgotten by a world that has passed them by," he added.

Moretti asked the committee to pay particular attention to the "elderly Filipino-American who has encountered major criminal and linguistic barriers."

He said the hearings should determine if housing and nutritional and health needs were being met.

Reagan gets vote tally bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Results of local elections could be announced despite polling delays in other parts of the state under a bill sent to the governor's desk Friday.

The Senate approved 32-0 the bill which aims to clarify an election snafu that occurred during the June 1972 primary in San Francisco.

A polling delay there prompted a delay in the announcement of local election returns elsewhere in the state despite the fact that the races and ballot measures were unaffected by the San Francisco vote.

old fashioned

bash!

The makings for a small town shindig might be right in your front yard and in those of your neighbors. Long Beach residents are discovering block parties are a great way to meet the people living behind all those closed doors of houses on the block.

Freelance writer Helen Graham explores the activity at several area block festivities. Some are simple, some elaborate, but all have one thing in common -- bringing back the old time neighborliness that sometimes gets lost in the bustle of city life.

'Mousehunting with dogs'

By DON CAMPBELL

Along with a variety of things in life that are no fun — such as getting caught in a heavy rain while you're recuperating from a bad chest cold — taxes have to rate pretty high.

And there are legal ways to get around them and illegal ways to accomplish the same thing. The latter isn't recommended, and the former is sometimes more trouble than it's worth.

Q: I AM 46, married, have no children and both my wife and I work. We live with my mother-in-law and pay $130 a month rent. We have five bank books which give us about $1,200 a year in interest and, in addition, I have four mutual funds and my wife has a few blue-chip stocks. This past April we had to pay more than $700 to the federal, state and city in income taxes.

I recently answered an advertisement and a salesman explained to me about municipal tax-free bonds. I would like to take one of our bank books ($10,700) on which I am getting $550 a year interest and convert it into municipal bonds. Can municipal bonds do as well, or better, for me? I do not need income on this, but would like it for retirement. Do I lose money if I turn them in before the maturity date?

A: It sounds to me a little like going after a mouse with a brace of hunting dogs, native beaters and a double-barreled shotgun. Hardly worth the effort, in other words.

In your tax bracket that is, a municipal bond yielding 4 per cent would give you the equivalent return of only 5.3 per cent; a 4½ per cent bond would yield the equivalent of only 6 per cent and a 5 per cent bond would give you the equivalent of only 6.6 per cent. This is better than the 4.7 per cent that you're getting at the bank but — like a demure kiss on the cheek — it's not all that good.

You're being entirely too conservative.

At your age and in your financial situation (incidentally, that's a great deal you've got on the reel), going the municipal bond route makes no more sense than the policy that you're currently pursuing.

For someone who is interested in capital appreciation, rather than income, you are right smack on dead center since the annual increase in the cost of living is just about offsetting your bank interest.

said that if he could indeed "forget" about his $10,000 for that length of time he would hopefully have $238,000. The figure I got for 8 per cent compounded for 40 years would be under $80,000.

So I found a chart for compounded interest. It only went up to 30 years and 7 per cent, but $10,000 at 7 per cent for 30 years is supposed to yield $76,123. If I can keep up my present rate of saving I, too, will have $10,000 soon and I am 21.

productivity years ahead of you, so I would suggest that you get your head out of the sand and either increase your holdings in good-grade mutual funds that are growth-oriented, and reinvest your dividends and capital gains, or consult a broker and have him help you pick out a few of the solid growth companies that—in today's weak stock market—are on the bargain shelf.

A: We're apparently using a different chart. Mine, for instance, indicates that $10,000 for 30 years at 7 per cent would amount to a little over $86,000. And I still come up with $237,800 for a $10,000 investment over 40 years at 8 per cent. Don't forget that in compounding the pace really accelerates in those last eight or 10 years.

U.S.-Hong Kong

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States continued to be the largest foreign investor in Hong Kong's industry through 1972, according to the latest figures of the Hong Kong Trade Development Council.

East meets West

As of November, 1977, the council reports, the United States accounted for 111 of the 262 either fully foreign-owned or joint venture undertakings in the Colony with a total estimated investment of $89.9 million. Of the total 262 foreign companies in Hong Kong, the majority are involved in electronics (60), clothing (41) and textiles (18).

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seeking new horizons, Japanese businesses are expanding their activities into the Caribbean, according to the Jamaica Industrial Development Corporation. In recent months Japanese companies have completed several major business arrangements, including the financing of a containerized transshipment port in Jamaica and participation in a steel plant on the island.

TV commercials keep White busy

SACRAMENTO — The actor everyone knows as the lonely washing machine repairman says he gets calls from big names in show business who want a shot at television commercial pay.

That's because it's getting tougher and tougher to make a living in acting, says Jesse White, who admits he's doing well enough as the repairman to keep him in his Beverly Hills home.

"THEY used to make three or four hundred movies a year in Hollywood. Now they're lucky to make 50," said White for whom combining commercials with character acting roles has become a way of life.

He's done commercials for peanut butter, a car rental firm and a Hawaiian hotel, among others.

"To me, it's another phase of show business," White said during a rehearsal break in a summer stock production of "Hello, Dolly."

One reason he's in demand for commercials is his voice — which sounds like a foghorn gone haywire.

"It's kind of unique. People can be in the kitchen doing the dishes and they can recognize it," White said.

White can quote sales statistics about his favorite washing machine and years as Cagney Calhoun in The Ann Southern television series "Private Secretary."

He appeared in "Bedtime for Bonzo," one of the last pictures Ronald Reagan made before becoming governor of California.

"Ronnie and I are old buddies," said White.

HIS first big break came in 1944, when he began a four-year Broadway run as the male nurse in "Harvey," the story of the invisible rabbit.

"I'd been in seven flops in a row previously. Eight weeks was the longest any of them ran. That rabbit. Everything I've got to this day, I owe to him."

After that came four

Singer Hazel Scott to try soap opera

NEW YORK (AP) — Hazel Scott, the fine jazz pianist and singer, has appeared in movies and on a few nighttime TV series. But next month, she's making her daytime debut as an actress — on a soap opera.

She's been cast as a "famous aunt from New York" who comes to the wedding of her niece on ABC-TV's "One Life to Live." She's even composed a wedding song and will sing it on the show.

You'd think that a soap opera would be the last thing a sophisticated night club performer would watch, let alone appear in. Wrong. Miss Scott says she's been a soap opera nut for years.

Tallulah Bankhead got me started on them," she says. "She used to call me up and say, 'Are you watching Secret Storm?' And I'd say, 'But of course. Wouldn't miss it.' And I never did."

HOW did her scheduled appearance on "One Life to Live" come about? It's mainly because she knew several of the writers and performers on the show. One night, one of them brought Gordon Russell, the show's head writer, to catch her act at a night club here.

"I don't know why, but he said, 'Do you think she'd do an episode in the show?'" Miss Scott laughed. "I told him I I'd written a summer wedding song."

She said there'll be no jazz music at the wedding because, after all, the occasion is a solemn one. However, musical support will be available should she decide to slip in a brief riff or two.

Nat Polen, who plays a brain specialist on the show, was a jazz drummer before going into the acting game.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

Sam was a pretty good golfer whose friends were aware of his dishonest tactics every time they played for money. Whenever he's taken six strokes on a given hole, he'd invariably declare five, but as the stakes weren't high, his pals went along with it most of the time.

However, golfing got to be an obsession with him and he started to neglect his business, which led to many a heated argument with his wife.

Finally, one day, as he was about to leave the house with his golf bag slung over his shoulder, his wife, with tabasco-tipped tongue, made a very satirical comment, whereupon he whirled around in a terrible fury — killed her with a five-iron — then lied about the strokes!!!

U.S. beats Russians; Atwood wins medley

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Dazzling Dave Thompson led a scrappy, ball-hawking United States team to a 75-67 basketball victory over the Soviet Union in the World University Games Friday a staggering upset that erased much of the shame of Munich of 1972.

Among the American victories Friday Susie Atwood's in the women's 200-meter individual medley.

Miss Atwood, the Long Beach City College student who won silver and bronze medals at Munich, led all the way over Cathy Carr and won by two body lengths in 2:26.4—a games record.

A packed crowd of 12,000 in the main gymnasium of Moscow's Palace of Sports was transformed from a whistling, hooting mob into a houseful of somber believers during the basketball finals.

Not much more than a bunch of kids, two of them 18 and all averaging 19 years in age, the pickup band of collegians whipped the Soviet's finest national stars on its home ground and made them like it.

The veteran Russian squad contained six of the players who ended America's 36-year Olympic dominance of the sport with a still controversial, 51-50 triumph at Munich and several members who had made a successful swing afterward through the United States.

"We were just great," said Ed Badger, head coach of the American team. "We were a better team all the way. We shows them how to play basketball, with no cheating."

"Nobody cares any longer about the Cubans," said assistant manager Duane Woltzen of Earlham College. "That blow with the chair still hurts but our gold medal has taken a lot of pain away from me."

The Cubans attacked the Americans, swinging chairs and throwing bottles during a game the Americans won, 98-76, Wednesday to enter the tournament semi-finals. The Cubans punched and kicked the Americans for five minutes and Woltzen was knocked down with a chair by a Cuban player.

"We're the best," bubbled Tom Burleson, the 7-foot-4 center from North Carolina State.

"We're back on top now."

"I'm glad I was able to have a part in this," continued Burleson, the only member of the U.S. team who played in last year's Olympics. "It's a personal satisfaction. Beating the Russians has been burning in me for a long time. I'm only sorry the other 11 at Munich couldn't be here with us."

Thompson, surrounded by dozens of Russians seeking autographs, said, "We played a super game, we kept them off the boards. We were all psyched up for this match, the most important of my life."

After the Russian women's basketball team, a big, poised aggregation with one player of 6-foot-11 and three others more than six feet, had beaten the outclassed U.S. girls, 81-44, the big gymnasium caught fire with emotion. "The Russian men, look-

John blanks Phillies

Dodger lead now 3 games over Reds

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

PHILADELPHIA — Tommy John was the pitcher a week ago when he tried to move Willie Crawford, his rightfielder, back a step or two.

Willie refused and there were words exchanged.

Since then the two have patched whatever differences there were and even laugh about the incident now.

After John dispatched the Philadelphia Phillies on three hits Friday night, 3-0, Crawford was heard to say:

"The way he pitched to night there was no reason for me to move back. No one was hittin' 'em too hard anyway."

For T.J., a man who's battled back impressively from an off-season elbow operation and then a spring of doubt, it's his 12th victory in 19 decisions and his second shut-out.

"He's pitching as well as I've seen him pitch," said the manager, Walter Alston. "I was concerned about him early in the year because of the elbow. But the last couple of months he's pitched awfully well."

John compared Friday's victory, the Dodgers' second in a row, with a three-hit 5-1 victory over Cincinnati in June, the one he said at the time "was my best game as a Dodger."

"In that one I really had a good fast ball," he said, "and that's been the difference."

"I've become a better pitcher since I've been in this league because of the fast ball. I used to throw curve balls about half the game when I was in the American League. But one day Chris Cannizzaro told me, 'Throw that fast ball. You've got a helluva fast ball, so pound it in.'"

"That's what I started doing and it's made a difference."

John's shutout was the

Rams nearly catch Dolphins

By RICH ROBERTS Staff Writer

MIAMI — Early Friday evening the press box pundits were suggesting that the football game to be played in the Orange Bowl should be blacked out in Los Angeles.

But in the end it was the Miami Dolphins who were nearly blacked out of their now 23-game unbeaten streak by James Harris. Who in relief of John Hadl brought the Rams from 17-0 behind to the brink of their first win before the Super Bowl champions held tough, 17-14.

Harris, a fourth-year pro from Grambling who served his apprenticeship at Buffalo, doesn't care to be the only black quarterback to start in the National Football League this season. He just wants to start, period.

As he did against Dallas three weeks ago, Harris got the Rams their only points, throwing touch-down passes to Lawrence McCutcheon — a 30-yard screen — and to Harold Jackson — 58-yard bomb.

The Rams had a chance to win, then tie late in the last quarter, but David Ray, fighting "the first slump of my life," barely Harris completed 12 of 18 passes for 196 yards, with no interceptions.

To his additional credit, he was not performing against "Dolphin" Rinkydinks. Miami coach Don Shula subbed liberally on offense but gave his starting defense a game-long workout.

Harris said, "It's a matter of confidence. I've been able to work with John Hadl. I room with him. We talk about it a lot... about what to do in certain situations. He's helped me a lot."

Before Friday night Harris was believed to be competing only for the backup spot. Now it appears Hadl, a 12-year pro, will be pressed for the starting berth.

"I'm just going out to do my best every game," Harris smiled.

Coach Chuck Knox was pleased that "we didn't come in at halftime (17-0) and fold our tent. We slipped back last week (16-3 loss to Oakland) but we grew a little tonight."

Bob Griese, who missed last week's 9-9 tie with the Chicago Bears because of an infected elbow, played only the first three series but posted a 17-0 lead that held up through halftime. He completed his first seven passes and a string of 15 in a row over two games on an overthrow to Jim Kiick. Then Ram strong safety Dave Elmendorf tipped a touch-down out of the hands of Paul Warfield at the goal line, forcing the Dolphins to settle for Garo Yepremian's 33-yard field goal.

Earlier, Griese directed

NEW LOOK, NEW FORMAT AT ONTARIO

By ALLEN WOLFE Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Perhaps for the first time in his life, Parnelli Jones is nervous. But he has a good reason to be since he's the president of Ontario Motor Speedway and has a vested interest in its well-being.

The "Great California 500 Experiment of 1973" begins today at 11 a.m. with qualifying rounds for the USAC Championship race on Sept. 2, the first step of many to transmute new life into the track.

The success or failure of this year's race could very well signal the death knell of the $25.5 million Taj Mahal of auto racing, the plant that mushroomed four years ago amid the grape vines of this community 40 miles east of L.A. and at the time was described as being the "ultimate racing facility in the world."

The future of the sprawling 700-acre plant was thrown into limbo eight months ago when the operating company at the time, headed by the then president John Cooper, defaulted on a semi-annual interest payment of approximately $600,000.

Inactive for three months except for occasional testing purposes, the Ontario Motor Speedway Corp., a non-profit board representing the city, finally accepted a proposal tendered by Jones on April 19 to take over the management of the track. The contract was for one year with an option for long-term renewal.

Parnelli, 1963 winner of the Indy 500 and a self-made millionaire, from Torrance, represented a group — Ontario Motor Speedway Operating Co. Ltd. — which included, among others, Tony Hulman, president of Indianapolis Motor Speedway since 1946.

In the five months since then, Jones, Hulman & Co. have watered the grass, removed the weeds, repaired the signs and slapped on new coats of paint.

They've done something else, too.

In his first official act as OMS president, Rufus Parnell (his given name) devised a new format for Cal 500 qualifying, one in which two conclusions were quickly reached: (1) the proposal would — and has — caused no end of torment and furor among the 47 teams entered and (2) the potential for "one helluva show for the fans," as driver Jimmy Caruthers puts it, is self-evident.

Without going into details, the new qualifying format calls for two 40-lap, 100-mile sprint-type races, scheduled for 1:30 and 3 p.m. this Sunday afternoon. The order of finish in the heats determines how they lineup for the $300,000 main event on Sept. 2.

Each heat carries a $25,000 purse, $125 in-lap prizes and USAC Championship points.

This replaces the traditional Indianapolis-type qualifying format consisting of four electronically timed laps around the 2½-mile Ontario oval, with the average speed determining the lineup for race day.

The "new" format isn't actually new. Parnelli "borrowed" it from the NASCAR stock car people at Daytona International Speedway, who during their February Speedweeks each year use similar 125-mile heats to qualify for the rich Daytona 500.

According to Parnelli he decided to adopt the NASCAR format for two reasons. One, to generate more spectator interest in qualifying and (2) if at all possible to fill the Ontario coffers with a few more farthings, which would aid Parnelli's cause when contract renewal time comes around.

"I felt most of all, when I put on the hat of promoting this track, that I had a different outlook, there were goals I wanted to attain and that the primary purpose was to entertain the people," reflects Parnelli.

"Unlike Indianapolis we don't have tradition to draw from and we don't have four weeks of pre-race activities. We only have two weeks. We felt the second qualifying day would provide us with a test-bed situation — running heat races and seeing how the fans reacted to it.

"Usually, the second day of qualifying is anticlimactic. The pole (position) has already been locked up and most of the big names are already in the field, so why show up?"

"I'm convinced this track can pay dividends. But it's going to take the cooperation of the community, fans, race drivers, organizations like USAC and everyone involved in the sport in order to do it. We're going to have to sacrifice in some quarters."

The first "sacrificial lambs" (so to speak) appear to be the drivers and crews of the USAC Championship trail.

To say they are less than enamored with Parnelli's new brainchild would be a gross understatement. The fact is, many have voiced their displeasure, but at the same time also realize that its long-range benefits could ultimately outweigh the negative factors of the present — and there are many, to be sure.

"The money they're offering doesn't really warrant our running the heats," says a grim-faced Johnny Rutherford, this year's pole-sitter at Indy. "But we're going to run them anyway. They're asking us to jeopardize a $100,000 car for a $25,000 purse and if we're lucky we might pick up $5,000. That's just a drop in the bucket. Heck, we spend that much money and more preparing a car for a race."

"The heats themselves are going to be wild," he continues. "There's no problem about conserving fuel. Everyone will dial in as much horsepower as

Taiwan's team 'professional' Little Leaguers

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — A Little League team from Taiwan goes after the island's third consecutive championship Saturday, and the volunteers who run Little League baseball in the United States are upset about it.

The Oriental teams are just too good, the argument goes, and they keep improving.

The players, coaches and parents of Cactus Little League, from Tucson, Ariz., are the only group in Williamsport that says its team has a chance to beat Taiwan.

"I thought last year's team from Taipei, Taiwan was perfect," said a middle-aged district administrator from the Midwest.

"This year's team from Tainan City, Taiwan is much better. It's not fair for our boys to compete with them. They don't have a chance."

"THE CHINESE are 12-year-old professionals," said another volunteer from the East Coast. Taiwan teams won the series in 1969, 1971 and 1972. Japanese teams took the title in 1967 and 1968.

Interviews with more than a dozen officials showed amazement, resentment and unanimous concern with the performance of the Far East teams.

"You could take the seven other teams that came here and list the best players from every one. What you'd come up with wouldn't have a chance against the Chinese. There's no way they can get a team like that following the rules," said an administrator from the South.

Some say Taiwan violates Little League rules on eligibility, recruitment, district size and practice time. Others accuse the Nationalist Chinese government of building super teams for use as a propaganda tool.

NONE HAS any specific facts to back up the claims.

But the questions weigh heavily nonetheless on the image-conscious management of the Little League, whose board of directors meets hours before the 27th annual championship game.

"It's normal they (the volunteer officials) would resent this and I don't blame them," said Peter J. McGovern, fulltime Little League president and chairman of the board. The performance of the Taiwan teams is "a phenomenal thing, to say the least," he said.

"But I don't think the district administrators really understood the situation over there. The Little League program is the pride of the nation . . . from the top levels of government down to the lowest, from Madame Chiang Kai-Shek down.

"If they erred, it was in the direction of excellence," said McGovern.

TAINAN CITY reached the finals with back-to-back no-hitters, the first a perfect game. Bitberg, Germany Air Force Base succumbed 18-0 in the opener as Taiwan held down the score the last three innings by ordering each of its batters to bunt.

In the semifinals, Taiwan trounced Tampa, Fla., 27-0, breaking at least four series' batting marks. More are expected to fall in the finale.

In the two six-inning games it has played, Tainan City has 45 runs the previous record for a three-game series was 34, and 35 hits, nine of them home runs.

The two Taiwan pitchers, Huang Ching-hui and Kuo Wenli, have allowed only one opposing batter to reach base. It was a walk and the umpire's call was questionable.

HUANG is eligible to pitch the final game, but there is speculation Taiwan may use a lesser hurler. The Taiwan coaches seem aware of the dis-satisfaction with the team's success.

The two Tucson pitchers, Mike Fimmers and Ed Visberg, both pitched one-hitters as the team reached the finals by defeating Colonie, N.Y., and Birmingham, Mich.

Neither seemed to inspire the awe shown China's pitchers, however. Taiwan's hitters say, through interpreters, that they hit the curve as easily as anything else.

DETROIT (AP) — Cincinnati scored a pair of first-half touchdowns, one on an 81-yard Ken Anderson to Bob Trumpy pass-run play, as the Bengals defeated the Detroit Lions 17-10 Friday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

The Trumpy touchdown came on the first Bengal play of the second quarter. He eluded Lion defenders, hauled in a 36-yard pass from Anderson, then sprinted 45 more

Gabe vs. Unitas matchup lacks old-time interest

Associated Press

In past years, a confrontation between Roman Gabriel and John Unitas would have meant a classic struggle between two of pro football's premier quarterbacks.

But when Unitas, now with the San Diego Chargers, and Gabriel, with Philadelphia, clash tonight in San Diego, they will meet as question marks — trying to nail down the starting job on a new club.

The 40-year-old Unitas, playing his first season with the Chargers after being traded by Baltimore, is listed as a "probable" after suffering back spasms Wednesday.

The 33-year-old Gabriel, since being traded by the Rams to the Eagles, has still not been able to be convincing in the role of starting quarterback.

In other games, Baltimore is at Washington, Atlanta plays Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., New England is at New Orleans, Oakland plays Minnesota at Berkeley, and the New York Jets are at St. Louis.

On Sunday Green Bay is at Kansas City, Chicago at Buffalo, Denver at San Francisco and the New York Giants host Pittsburgh.

When the Chargers and Eagles meet, it will be the first encounter ever between two of last year's last-place finishers.

"We'll go with Gabriel probably most of the game," said Philadelphia coach Mike McCormack. Gabriel was unable to move the Eagles last week when they lost to Pittsburgh for their second defeat in three outings. He has also not been able to completely shake the challenge of second-year quarterback John Reaves.

Unitas has thrown well despite three Charger losses, but has been plagued by a series of minor ailments. Third-year replacement Wayne Clark has been a disappointment so far.

Fran Tarkenton will start at quarterback for Minnesota against the Oakland Raiders, while Clint Jones and Bill Brown were selected to start at running back in place of Dave Osborn and Oscar Reed.

Ailing quarterback Archie Manning will not start for New Orleans against the Patriots. Manning has been out of action all week because of a bruised thigh and Bobby Scott, a two-year veteran of the taxi squad, will get his first starting assignment.

Atlanta coach Norm Van Brocklin said Harmon Wages would start at fullback in place of Art

ROMAN GABRIEL
Still not No. 1

Malone against Cleveland. Wages, back after knee surgery last year, caught four passes for 60 yards and ran for a 10-yard touchdown last week against New England.

Jets' quarterback Joe Namath will be back in the lineup against the Cardinals after being knocked out of the Giants' game last week because of a sore elbow.

The undefeated Giants may be forced to face Pittsburgh without defensive lineman Jack Gregory, absent due to the illness of his infant son.

WHO'S SCALPING WHOM?

John Riggins is asking $150,000 to play football again for New York Jets, which sounds like he's trying to scalp his employer. But when running back visited training camp this week he was sporting Mohawk haircut.

Rams come up short —

the Dolphins on 73 and 79-yard scoring assaults that Hitler's panzers would have envied in 1939.

Grinding and grooving against a Rams defense that was missing linebackers Marlin McKeever and Isaiah Robertson and tackle Merlin Olsen, Griese used the sweeps of Mercury Morris (12, 9, 13 and 7 yards), the mad bull stampedes of Larry Csonka and shots to Warfield for 19 and 25 yards, Kilek on a screen for 25 and lesser thrusts to roll almost at will.

The Rams' offense, operating without guard Tom Mack, was likewise frustrated by the Dolphins' well-known "No-Name" defense.

Rookie Jeff White of Texas-El Paso, who probably will be cut, so deep in talent are the Dolphins, kept kicking off into the end zone, hardly giving Hadl room to maneuver. Hadl was sacked on each of his series, although he did go 2-for-4 on completions to Dick Gordon for seven and Larry Smith on a screen for 18.

Harris then took over, but was sacked twice in a row on the slippery Poly-Turf and got the Rams really close to the Miami goal only when Dolphin cornerback Curtis Johnson climbed Jackson's back on a long pass. The interference gained 18 yards to the 21, from where Ray — hampered by a high snap to his new holder, Steve Preece — kicked wide right on the last play of the half.

When Harris entered the game, Shula took that as his cue to call off the storm troopers, relieving Griese with rookie Don Strock of Virginia Tech and a cast of extras.

That put the Rams back in the ball game.

Going with the second-half kickoff, Harris fired 22 yards to steady old Le Josephson over the middle, 18 to Jack Snow at the right sideline and then pitched a screen to McCutcheon from the 30.

McCutcheon, trying to live down fumbles in each of the Rams' first three games, cut back to his right between blocks by reserve guards Willie Parker and Rich Saul and sprinted into the end zone untouched.

It was the first touchdown pass against the Dolphins in this pre-season, and another soon followed.

Few were taking the Rams' comeback seriously until Ram rookie cornerback Eddie McMillan of Florida State, perhaps inspired by his friends in the crowd, blunted a Miami drive with a diving interception of a poor pass by Earl Morrall at the Rams' one yard line.

Given that minimal field position, Harris rose to the occasion.

He dug his way out of the hole on passes to Gordon for nine yards and tight end Pat Curran for 46 before the moonshot to Jackson for 58.

The league's leading receiver of last season, doublecovered by the Dolphins' first-string safeties, altered his curl pattern, got a step on Dick Anderson and gave Jake Scott the slip as he caught Harris' strike at the 15 and loped across to make it 17-14.

Elendorf's 21-yard return of Larry Seiple's short punt after Miami's next series put the Rams at the Dolphins' 49, but the champs' defense pushed Harris and his pals back 15 yards, forcing them to punt.

Dave Chapple kicked the ball into the end zone, and on the Dolphins' first play from their 20 Hubert Ginn ran a pitchout left.

Linebacker Dean Halverson pulled him down behind the line and the ball popped loose. Preece coming from his free safety position to recover at the Miami 17.

Parker was caught holding on the first play for a setback to the 32, Harris passed 13 to Josephson but then was sacked for a loss of seven on third down.

Ray tried a 33-yard field goal from the right hashmark and raised his arms in joy when he thought he had toed the ball on course. But it hooked left, leaving him a vexing 1-for-9 in the first four games.

That wasn't the Rams' last bid, though. Jim Bertelsen's spectacular 36-yard return of Seiple's long punt — twice he seemed to be stopped — put the Rams at their own 46 with 1:16 remaining, but Harris was foiled again and Ray's desperate 53-yard field goal was far short.

ONTARIO—

possible, floor the throttle and hope they survive. It's going to be absolutely berserk.

"The thing that really bothers me is that Peter (Gulf McLaren teammate Peter Revson) and I have only one car each. There are no backups. If either one of us write it off (crash) in the heats then we're history. There's no way we can build a new car in one week. We'll just be spectators."

Wally Dallenbach, STP team driver and winner of the Tony Bettenhausen 200 two weeks ago in Milwaukee, is a little more sympathetic.

"Sure, I think most of us realize the situation here," he says. "We all want to help out if we can. What it boils down to is that we're running two races and 600 miles for about $200,000 less money than last year. That's quite a difference, but if that's what it takes to get this place back on its feet again, I'll go along with it."

Parnelli Jones is glad to hear that.

PIT PATER: Today's activity at Ontario Motor Speedway centers around qualifying time trials. To be held between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. . . . Due to the 100-mile qualifying heat races on Sunday, time trials for this year's race have been trimmed from four to two laps around the 2.5-mile Ontario oval. The last two lap average against the electric eye determines each driver's starting position in Sunday's heats. "The best way to explain it," says USAC Director of Competition Dick King, "is that drivers have to qualify in order to qualify." Come again? Additional two lap time trials will be conducted between 9 a.m. and noon on Sunday, just prior to the heats at 1:30 and 3 p.m. . . . A special "preview" qualifying session was held Friday for drivers Mark Donohue and David Hobbs, both of whom have contract commitments to fulfill for Sunday's Can-Am Challenge Cup series race at Elkhart Lake, Wis., and thus must forfeit the right to win the pole position. . . . Donohue, the 1972 Indy 500 winner, drove a Roger Penske-prepared Sunoco DX Eagle-Offy to a two lap average of 194.847 mph and qualified with no problem Friday. His first lap was 46.11 seconds at 195.165 mph and his second was 46.27 seconds at 194.510 mph. . . . Hobbs, meanwhile, burned a piston in Friday's practice and did not make an attempt to qualify. That means the 31-year-old driver from Upper Boddington, England will be forced to qualify today. "Providing we can find a new engine," he says — and then fly to Elkhart Lake. . . . Mario Andretti won the right to attempt the first official qualification run today when he drew the No. 1 pit in Friday's draw for qualification order. Next in line behind Mario are Peter Revson, John Mahler and Johnny Parsons. . . . The fastest speed posted by any driver during the first five days of practice was one of 158.014 mph turned in by Bobby Unser on Thursday in his Oldsmobile-Eagle Offy. Other top speeds include Lloyd Ruby (195.865), Gordon Johncock (195.015), Gary Bettenhausen (194.577), Jimmy Carter (184.477) and Johnny Rutherford (194.328). Bobby Unser owns the Ontario track records of 201.565 mph for one lap and 201.374 mph for four laps, set last year.
